

TWO OTHERS SET . . . Judge Heads Off One Rail Strike

By United Press International

A judge's decision headed off one railroad strike Thursday but rail workers were poised to walk out at two other lines Friday. Sabotage was charged in the second day of a nationwide telephone strike.

Charles Luna, president of the United Transportation Union (UTU) said in Cleveland the union would not go ahead with its plans to strike the Chicago and North Western Railroad at 6 a.m. Friday.

However, a 6 a.m. strike call remained in effect for UTU workers on the Union Pacific and Southern Railroad systems.

Both Union Pacific and Southern Railroad officials said the lines would shut down within 24 hours or less if they are struck. In Washington, acting Labor Secretary Laurence H. Silberman called company and rail officials to an 11th hour meeting in hopes of averting walkouts that could balloon into a nationwide rail stoppage.

Appeal Rejected

Luna told the North Western workers to stay on the job after U.S. District Judge Joseph Sam Perry of Chicago turned down a union appeal to lift his restraining order forbidding a strike against that line until July 23. But Luna said the other strike calls would remain in effect.

The UTU has threatened to strike two more lines — the Southern Pacific and the Norfolk and Western — next week if the railroads will not back down on proposed work rules changes. Strikes against more railroads could follow.

The railroad industry has called the threatened strikes "unnecessary . . . senseless" and has threatened to fire thousands of UTU workers and cut the pay of others if selective strikes begin.

The threatened rail strike was the latest headache in the nation's labor troubles.

CWA Strike Continues

A half million members of the Communication Workers of America (CWA) were in the second day of their strike against the nation's telephone system and the FBI was asked to investigate alleged acts of violence against telephone equipment and property in Illinois.

There were no signs of settlements in strikes that idled tens of thousands of workers on west coast dock and in the copper, farm equipment and telegraph industries.

The Illinois Bell Telephone Co. announced it had cut off talks with a union of electrical workers because of "vicious and insane" acts of violence.

Large areas of Lake County, Ill., north of Chicago, were cut off from telephone service because of cut cables and burned out junction boxes, the company said, and a company garage in Elgin, Ill., was firebombed.

The company estimated total damage at $100,000 and said 69 acts of sabotage, vandalism, violence and threats had occurred in 36 hours. At least five persons identified as members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers were arrested in connection with the incidents.

Wolff Likely To Succeed Sigler As Warden

. . . NEWS CONFERENCE SET TODAY BY La MONTIA

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

State Institutions Director Michael La Montia called a news conference for 10 a.m. Friday to announce a successor to Maurice H. Sigler as warden of the State Penal Complex.

The two men considered the most likely candidates as Sigler's successor are Victor G. Walker, assistant superintendent at the Kearney Boys Training School, and Charles Q. Wolff, Sigler's administrative assistant.

The Star's sources indicate that Wolff who was favored by Sigler to replace him as warden, will in fact get the job.

Wolff refused to deny or confirm that he will be the next warden.

"All I can say is that the position was discussed with me, but that's all I'm at liberty to say at this time," he said.

La Montia said the search for a deputy director of corrections has not ended, and candidates for that post are still being considered.

Sigler, who has been appointed to the U.S. Board of Parole, held both the warden's and deputy director's jobs.

La Montia said that the work was too much for one man to do effectively.

The only comment Sen. Ernie Chambers of Omaha, an outspoken critic of Nebraska's penal system, had on Wolff's expected appointment had was, "It's no more than I expected."

Wolff came to Nebraska in 1956 from Pennsylvania to work for the old Board of Control. In 1959 he was appointed superintendent of prison industries which he served on until 1963 when he was named prison business manager.

He held that post until 1970 when he replaced John Greenholtz as deputy warden. He became Sigler's assistant this past April.

Walker, 59, prior to coming to the Training School in 1967 was senior officer in the federal prison system of California. He has also had 10 years of experience with the Federal Bureau of Prisons and another 10 years with the Louisiana Department of Institutions.

The committee approved 17 to 6 an amendment by Rep. Cornelius E. Gallagher, D-N.J., to halt all $225 million requested for Pakistan until it ends what Gallagher called a "reign of terror" in East Pakistan and permits predominantly Hindu refugees to return to their homes and property, ty.

The aid would be cut off until President Nixon notified Congress on the basis of reports from international inspection teams or other means that the government of Pakistan was cooperating in restoring political stability in West Pakistan and permitting refugees to India to return to their homes.

The committee earlier had voted to add $100 million to the bill for the "relief and rehabilitation" for Pakistani refugees.

Committee Votes To Cut Off U.S. Aid To Greece, Pakistan

Washington (AP) — The House Foreign Affairs Committee voted Thursday to cut off all U.S. aid to Greece until it restores democratic rule and to Pakistan until it solves its refugee problem.

The votes would cut off $225 million to Pakistan and $118 million to Greece.

The committee approved 17 to 12 an amendment by Rep. Wayne L. Hays to scrap all $118 million requested by President Nixon for Greece unless the President declared in writing that the "overriding requirements of the security of the United States" demanded it.

Even then the aid to the Greek military government would be limited to the present $80.3 million level and could not be increased to the President's request for $118 million for the fiscal year that started July 1.

But Hays said "I would be right in there with a bill to remove these restrictions" if the Greek military government restored democratic rule.

CITY TAKES OVER . . . buses undergo extensive cleanup job.

Cleanliness, Promptness Are Top City Bus Goals

Clean buses and the meeting schedules will be emphasized when the city takes over operation of the local bus system Friday, says John Alden, chairman of the Transit Advisory Committee.

He said the two items "will be among top priority items."

Trustees from the city jail spent Thursday evening cleaning the exterior and interior of the Lincoln City Line buses in preparation for their inaugural run Friday as the city property.

Midnight Takeover

The stroke of midnight marked the end of Lincoln City Lines as a private operation, although bus company officials will continue management duties until the city is able to provide its own management. The switch from private to public operation follows the national trend as bus companies, faced with declining revenues and passengers, contend the private transit is no longer a profitable operation.

Alden said the cleanup campaign is part of the city's efforts to demonstrate to the public "that we are trying to do something."

The buses "may not run very good, but they will be clean," he said.

Overhauls Planned

Alden said he anticipates that some of the buses, where economically feasible, will be completely overhauled and put into good mechanical shape — perhaps with a different color.

He said estimates have been received of a cost of $2,500 to restore a bus to good working order.

The number to be restored will be a decision based on the condition of the bus and the cost and length of time the bus is expected to be in service, Alden said.

City Atty. Dick Wood said "all steps will be taken to see that schedules are met."

Okay Expected

Wood said he has been advised approval of the city's application for federal funds will be forthcoming from the Urban Mass Transit Administration once Congress appropriates the funds.

The application submitted by the city calls for the purchase of 36 new buses to replace the existing fleet. Wood said he has not received word whether the purchase of all 36 buses will be permitted by UMTA.

City Purchasing Agent Wayne Harvey noted that a four to six-month wait for delivery of new buses can be expected — after federal approval of the application and mechanical specifications of the buses is made.

President Accepts Invitation From Chou

. . . ARRANGEMENTS MADE BY KISSINGER JULY 9-11

Los Angeles (UPI) — President Nixon announced Thursday night he had accepted an invitation from Premier Chou En-lai of the People's Republic of China to visit Peking sometime before May 1972.

He said the trip was arranged during a secret visit of his national security affairs adviser, Henry A. Kissinger, to Peking July 9 to July 11 while Kissinger was on an around-the-world trip.

"I have taken this action because of my profound conviction that all nations will gain from a reduction of tensions and a better relationship between the United States and the People's Republic of China," the President said in a five-minute nationwide radio and television statement.

He'd Be The First

Nixon's announcement came as a complete surprise. He would be the first U.S. president to visit the world's most populous Communist nation.

"There can be no stable and enduring peace without the participation of the People's Republic of China and its 750 million people," Nixon said.

The President said his decision to visit China would arouse some opposition in this country.

"I want to put our policy in the clearest possible context," he said.

"Our action in seeking a new relationship with the People's Republic of China will not be at the expense of our old friends. It is not directed against any other nation."

"We seek friendly relations with all nations. Any nation can be our friend without being any other nation's enemy."

Major Departure

The announcement, made simultaneously here and in Peking, signaled a major departure in the policy which the United States has followed since the Communists won the civil war with the Nationalists.

In Washington, republican House Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan said, "I would expect . . . that one subject that the President and Premier Chou En-lai would discuss would be the convening of an Indochina peace conference."

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said he was

"flabbergasted" and "delighted."

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., said he thought such a journey could be of "immense importance in bringing about a speedy end to the war."

But Ford's remark was considered particularly significant because of his close working relationship with Nixon.

Wednesday, Australian political leader Gough Whitlam said in Hong Kong after returning from Peking that Chou had told him China was willing to attend a revived Geneva conference on Indochina.

Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott said he thought the development "very likely" would make the North Vietnamese more willing to settle war issues, and could have a "favorable" effect on current arms limitation talks with Russia.

Not all reaction to Nixon's announcement was favorable. James Shen, Nationalist China's ambassador to Washington, said he "couldn't believe my ears. I am sure the news will be received with considerable shock and disbelief in Taipei."

United Nations Secretary-General Thant said the plan "has opened a new chapter in the history of international relations."

Kissinger's visit to Peking was a closely held secret. He supposedly was indisposed with a slight ailment in Pakistan last weekend during his China visit.

In its brief broadcast announcement, Communist China said:

"The meeting between the leaders of China and the United States is to seek the normalization of relations between the two countries and also to exchange views on questions of concern to the two sides."

Nixon flew here with Kissinger and several other aides from the Western White House in San Clemente to make the announcement.

It came on the heels of several initiatives toward normalizing relations with the Communist Chinese government. The President recently relaxed trade and travel restrictions to mainland China and has indicated that the United States might drop its objections to Peking's entry into the United Nations.

Demos Agree To Limit Spending In Primaries

(c) Washington Star

Washington — The Democratic Party is on the verge of securing a precedent-setting agreement which would establish a voluntary ceiling on expenditures for broadcast time for each of the men running in the party's 1972 presidential primaries.

According to Lawrence F. O'Brien, the Democratic national chairman, five of the likely contenders for the nomination already have agreed to limit their purchase of radio and television time in all primary elections next year.

Tentative agreement was reached at a dinner meeting Thursday night, O'Brien said, and it will become final once the Democratic National Committee has secured the approval of the two possible candidates who were not present at the session.

Expenditures for broadcast time would be limited to a maximum of five cents per registered voter — including both Republicans and Democrats — in each state. If a candidate entered all of the 1972 primaries — in 22 states and the District of Columbia — his maximum permitted outlay in that category would be $2,819,000, O'Brien said.

Nationally, the party is still deeply in debt from the 1968 campaigns.

The party chairman described the spending limit as "a firm indicator of how the Democratic Party will approach the American voter in 1972. That voter cannot be bought . . . that's Mr. Nixon's game."

The potential presidential candidates present for the discussion were Sens. George S. McGovern of South Dakota, Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma, Birch Bayh of Indiana, Edmund S. Muskie of Maine and Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota.

The spending limit on broadcast time would apply only to the money paid to radio and television stations, not to the additional 15% standard fee billed by advertising agencies which purchase that time or to costs of producing the commercials, which can amount to as much as $100,000 per candidate.

Also not covered by the agreement are all other campaign costs — including print media advertising, airline and hotel bills, staff salaries, office rentals, communications costs and printing bills.

City Personnel Board Is Divided Over Police Dept. Vacation Policy

By TOM EKVALL

City Personnel Board members split over whether police department vacation time should be based on continuous service or total service.

Lacking sufficient votes to take final action on motion to base vacation time on total service, the board decided to forward the matter and the voting of board members to the City Council rather than take final action at another meeting.

The board voted 2-1 in favor of the motion with new member James Tisdale abstaining. Three affirmative votes are required for a motion to be approved.

Voting in favor were Irwin Chesen and Russ Eichelberger while Denis Fettinger opposed the motion.

Police Chief Joe Carroll appeared before the board in support of total service to be used for police department employees.

Carroll said he saw nothing wrong with treating the police department differently from other city employees in the area of benefits.

He pointed out that police department personnel do not get holidays off as do other city employees.

125 Affected

Mitchell said there are 125 employees with broken service, saying the continuous service is based on the philosophy that those who leave city employment and come back should not be entitled to total service.

"There is no purpose (in the policy) if one can come back and forth and not be penalized," he said.

Carroll said those police officers who leave and come back are demoted one grade, such as lieutenant to sergeant.

Chesen said he felt the demotion should be punishment enough.

26,843 Nonmilitary VC Killed

Washington — Rep. Ogden R. Reid, R-N.Y., read into the record of a House government operations subcommittee previously classified information that disclosed 26,843 nonmilitary Viet Cong insurgents and sympathizers were killed in 14 months through Operation Phoenix, part of the South Vietnam government's master plan of pacification.

Aid Cutoff Recommended

Washington — A cutoff of all American aid to Pakistan and Greece was voted by the House Foreign Affairs Committee. (More on Page 1.)

Two Banks Agree To Sell

Santiago — The Bank of America and the Bank of London and South America have agreed to sell their Chilean operations to the nationalized banking system, the Chilean central bank announced. Spokesmen for both banks said the terms were "satisfactory." The two other major foreign banks in Chile were said to be negotiating similar sales.

National Security Council Gathers

San Clemente, Calif. — The National Security Council gathered for a meeting Friday at the Western White House to hear the results of an intensive foreign policy review that President Nixon's advisers have been conducting. Deputy Undersecretary of State U. Alexis Johnson and Joseph J. Sisco, assistant secretary for Near Eastern and South Asian affairs, will attend in addition to the council's regular members.

Discount Rate Raised

Washington — The discount rate was raised from 4% to 5% for four of the 12 Federal Reserve Banks by the Federal Reserve Board. (More on Page 2.)

Gas From Rockies Costlier

Washington — In a decision that may set the pattern for rate increases in Louisiana and may well lead to higher gas prices for consumers throughout the nation, the Federal Power Commission approved substantially higher rates for natural gas produced in the Rocky Mountain region.

Hughes Withdraws

Washington — Sen. Harold E. Hughes said he was withdrawing from the race for the Democratic presidential nomination next year his decision was "clearcut and irrevocable." (More on Page 2.)

Ex-Candidate Hughes Supports McGovern

Washington (AP) — Sen. Harold E. Hughes of Iowa renounced 1972 Democratic presidential candidacy Thursday after privately advising political allies to turn now to Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota.

Ending an undeclared campaign that took shape early this year, Hughes said he will pursue his goals as a senator, "unimpeded by the label of presidential candidate."

Hughes told a news conference he may well support a candidate for the nomination prior to the presidential primaries next year, but doesn't know which one. He said he was not advising his staff to support any particular candidate.

To Prevent Drift

However, it was learned that he had privately suggested to a group of political associates Wednesday night that they assist McGovern, saying that his candidacy is important to keep the party from shifting to the right.

McGovern quickly issued a statement saying he and Hughes "share a common viewpoint on the most urgent concerns before our country today . . . I shall seek his counsel and insight in my own presidential effort."

Offstage, McGovern's political aides went to work on the telephone, contacting Democrats who had been allied with Hughes, in hopes of gaining their support.

One McGovern lieutenant said the withdrawal of Hughes resolved a political dilemma that had threatened to divide the liberal Democratic constituency in the presidential primaries next year.

An aide to Sen. Edmund S. Muskie termed the withdrawal evidence of the success of the undeclared campaign being waged by the Maine senator, rated the leader on a long roster of Democratic presidential prospects.

Hughes, in telling his own political cadre of his plans to step aside, said he does not think McGovern can win the nomination.

He said the South Dakota senator "would make a pretty decent president," but doesn't have a chance.

Despite his assessment of McGovern's prospects, Hughes said if he were not in the race, the party would move to the right.

He said he thinks Muskie would move the party in that direction.

While Hughes was getting out, Sen. Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma was preparing to get into the presidential race.

Harris To Announce

Harris is to announce in Norman, Okla., Friday whether he will run for re-election to the Senate, or launch an exploratory presidential campaign. Sources in Washington said he already has decided to seek White House nomination.

Hughes privately assessed Harris as a tough, scrappy candidate who would hurt McGovern.

The Iowa senator, 49, and three times governor of his state, had been roaming the country periodically since early spring, in what he described as an effort to test his presidential prospects.

U.S. Tries To Launch 'Useful Dialogue'

Paris (AP) — The United States attempted Thursday to launch a "useful dialogue" at the Vietnam peace talks by answering and posing a series of questions on a Viet Cong peace plan.

But neither U.S. Ambassador David K. E. Bruce nor the Viet Cong's Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh and Hanoi's Xuan Thi were satisfied with the results and the conference appeared as deadlocked as before.

The 73-year-old Bruce, who according to the White House will be leaving his post for health reasons, addressed himself to the two-week-old peace package put forth by Mrs. Binh, and specifically gave what he termed answers to four questions she directed to him last week. Mrs. Binh, however, said the answers were "not concrete," and Thuy said Bruce was simply trying to "delay" positive response to the seven-point Viet Cong proposal.

Goes Down List

Bruce went down Mrs. Binh's list of four questions then asked five of his own.

Mrs. Binh had asked first whether the United States agreed to consider her seven points as a basis for negotiation.

Bruce replied: "Our answer is that we are willing . . . to consider for negotiation any proposals that have been or may be put forward here by your side, as well as our own."

Secondly, Mrs. Binh had asked which of the seven points the United States agrees with and which it does not, which were positive, and which were unacceptable.

Bruce said that a full response would require "much more explanation from you."

"For instance," he said, "we note what seems to be a greater willingness on your part to commit yourselves specifically to the release of prisoners of war in conjunction with troop withdrawals. However, you deal with this complex issue in a highly superficial and misleading manner."

"You gloss over the fact that you still seem to be asking acceptance by us of the same fundamental objectives you have always sought here — the total, unconditional withdrawal of U.S. forces without any previous negotiation on the subject."

Mrs. Binh's third question has whether the United States is prepared to set immediately a date in 1971 for the total withdrawal of U.S. forces from South Vietnam.

Bruce replied, "We have long been ready to negotiate a timetable for complete withdrawal as part of an overall settlement. But the fixing of a withdrawal date must be the result of a genuine negotiating process. . . . Fourth, he said, Mrs. Binh had asked about U.S. intentions regarding the Saigon government.

Bruce's response: "The South Vietnamese people must be allowed to determine themselves their own political future. The United States will not impose any government on South Vietnam, nor will it be a party to such imposition. . . ."

Bruce sought to learn through his own five questions:

1. Whether the Viet Cong put forth their July 1 proposals "as the only basis for negotiations here" or whether they were willing to consider U.S. proposals as well.

2. If, when the Viet Cong ask withdrawal of U.S. forces by the end of this year in return for release of prisoners, "without posing any conditions whatsoever," whether the United States must agree to this "series of arbitrary demands without any discussion or negotiation on them."

3. Whether the United States must fix a withdrawal date "without any negotiation beforehand and without any firm commitment on your part to do anything."

4. If, when speaking of release of prisoners, North Vietnam and the Viet Cong mean only those held in Vietnam or also those in Laos and Cambodia.

5. Whether the Viet Cong "still link the problem of cease fire to the prior satisfaction of your political demands."

Drive Into Parrot's Beak Fruitless

Saigon (AP) — The bulk of a 1,500-man South Vietnamese task force pulled back to South Vietnam on Thursday from a fruitless, one-week drive into eastern Cambodia.

They left behind about 500 troops to man a newly opened artillery and patrol base a few miles inside Cambodia in the Parrot's Beak sector.

The withdrawal came as the 11-day lull across South Vietnam persisted and only small and scattered clashes were reported by the allied commands.

In the withdrawal from Cambodia, about 1,000 South Vietnamese returned to their base at Cu Chi, 20 miles west of Saigon.

During their week-long operation, they failed to make any significant contact with enemy units and were hampered by flood conditions in the Parrot's Beak, an area of paddies and marshy flatlands 65 miles west of Saigon.

They had hoped to trap a 400-man North Vietnamese sapper battalion believed in the area as well as uncover arms and supply caches. Several small caches were found but otherwise the operation proved uneventful.

The operation was launched

July 8 with U.S. helicopters airlifting Saigon troops from South Vietnamese territory six to nine miles inside Cambodia. One apparent reason for calling off the drive was the floods.

The U.S. Command also reported, in its weekly casualty summary, that 29 Americans were killed in action last week, the highest toll in six weeks.

The command also reported 179 Americans were wounded in action last week, a decrease from the 182 wounded the previous week but at about the same level as the past five weeks.

Senate To Consider Direct Aid To Colleges

(c) Washington Star

Washington — The Senate Committee on Labor and Public Welfare Thursday approved a multi-billion dollar higher education bill incorporating the principle of federal aid for financially pressed private and public colleges and universities and two-year institutions.

Generally similar to a measure developed by an education subcommittee headed by Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., it differs substantially from the Nixon administration proposals. It would cost at least $17 billion over four years and about $1.4 billion for the current budget year, rising to about $6 billion for the 1973 fiscal year.

Included in the bill are both aid to students, and direct aid to colleges.

The bill proposes a program of basic educational opportunity grants, awarding federal scholarship aid to low and middle income students, based on family income, size and assets. Individual student grants would range from $1,400 to $2,000 per year.

Although the bill provides that the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare set eligibility requirements, committee sources said it was unlikely that families with adjusted incomes above $15,000 would be eligible for the grants. These families, however, still could benefit from federally guaranteed student loan programs. A secondary loan market would be set up to expand the money market for private loans.

Regardless of income, however, students would carry with them to whatever institution they attend a separate federal cost of instruction allowance that the institution could spend with few strings attached. Institutions of less than 1,000 enrollment would get $500 for each student, while larger institutions would receive $100 or $200 per student.

Members of the Senate Committee, headed by Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., say their approach for helping colleges and universities is within guidelines set down by the U.S. Supreme Court in its decision last month restricting federal aid to church-related schools and colleges.

Committee members said that if scholarships and loans for students are increased, more students will seek college or other post-secondary education. Since the federal government would be putting added burdens on institutions to expand their enrollments, it should assume part of that burden by helping the institutions to meet new demands, senators said.

On the house side, however, Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., who heads a subcommittee on higher education, feels the Supreme Court rulings have clouded the legality of direct federal aid to church-related institutions.

Before moving forward on any higher education legislation, Mrs. Green plans a hearing with the Justice Department and church school lawyers to get opinions on what is now legally possible.

Bellwether Interest Rate Up

Washington (UPI) — Citing the need to curb persistent inflation, the Federal Reserve Board increased the interest charges on loans to commercial banks from 4% to 5% Thursday.

The raise in the so-called discount rate — considered a bellwether of other interest rates all down the line — followed four cuts in the past year as the board tried to pull the nation out of the economic doldrums.

It was the first change in the discount rate since Feb. 13 and was designed to tighten the money supply.

President Nixon had been counting on a liberal money policy to help fuel the recovery from last year's recession.

But Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur F. Burns has repeatedly urged the administration to adopt a more active policy to restrain wage and price increases in an effort to control inflation.

The action by the independent board apparently is in response to Nixon's refusal to follow Burns' advice.

that families with adjusted incomes above $15,000 would be eligible for the grants. These families, however, still could benefit from federally guaranteed student loan programs. A secondary loan market would be set up to expand the money market for private loans.

Regardless of income, however, students would carry with them to whatever institution they attend a separate federal cost of instruction allowance that the institution could spend with few strings attached. # North Platte Stop Helps Parisian Locate 'West'

North Platte (AP)—North Platte's "Where the West Begins" claim became more than just a bumper-sticker slogan for a native of Paris, France.

Jean Verjat, 30, a physical education instructor at a Paris school arrived in New York last week and headed west in search of the cowboys and Indians he had seen so much of in American movies shown in France.

Traveling across America by bus, Verjat failed to find anything even vaguely resembling cowboys and Indians in New York, Chicago or Des Moines. But when he saw the signs proclaiming North Platte as the home of Buffalo Bill

Cody, he figured this must be the place.

"I not know Buffalo Bill's home ess North Platte, but I hear of him before," said Verjat, pausing occasionally to search for the right word.

So he left the bus at the North Platte depot and began asking directions to Buffalo Bill's home. But because of his broken English — he studied it four years but had not had any practice speaking the language — he had some difficulty making himself understood and in understanding the "fast-talking Americans."

Wrong Direction
Consequently, some well-meaning citizen apparently directed him to Buffalo Bill Avenue in southwest North Platte, rather than Scout's Rest Ranch, northwest of town.

Had it not been for two young North Platte men, Craig Reiber, 22, and Dave Speck 21, Verjat might have spent the day wandering up and down Buffalo Bill Avenue.

The young men noticed Verjat asking directions and stopped to see if they could help. They could, and did, taking him to Scout's Rest Ranch, Fort Cody, and they even bought him a cowboy hat.

Verjat enjoyed the luxury of a night's sleep in a bed at Reiber and Speck's home. His usual berth is a "How your say... armchair?" in a bus depot. "Hotels much too expensive," he said.

His impressions of America?

"New York... great, great pollution holding his nose and making a face... I go away very fast... stay only one day. America have so many, many streets. Streets break the nature. I like nature."

"Too Flat"
And as for Nebraska, "I like because you have nature... but is too flat. I was surprised that in winter you have snow, for in France you have to go to mountains for snow."

Reiber and Speck treated Verjat to a Mexican dinner.

"Good to eat, but think my... how you say?... stomach?... yes, stomach... resist or oppose."

Verjat said he's afraid his stomach will "resist or oppose" the food during his month-long visit to Mexico after he leaves the United States.

He was especially interested in the problems of the American Indian and said his interest had been sparked by films such as Soldier Blue and Little Big Man, which he had seen in France.

"In France these films very popular, but they not in favor of U.S.A., but in favor of Indians. My opinion, and also opinion of many French, that these films same thing you have now in Vietnam."

What bothers him most about Americans is the way they often laugh at him when he asks questions.

"In library in Chicago, when I ask for book about Indians, they laughed at me, maybe because I not speak too well, but I think me. And when I ask directions to Buffalo Bill ranch some people laugh at me."

Cocoa Beach, Fla. — The University of Nebraska-Lincoln Department of Information received four "excellent," four "very good" and four "good" awards on entries submitted in the nationwide communications awards program of the American Association of Agricultural College Editors (AAACE). The awards were announced during the 55th annual AAACE conference here.

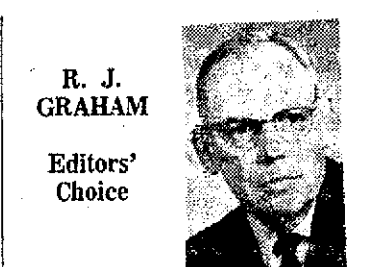

The competition drew 539 entries from land grant universities representing most of the 50 states, plus information offices of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Nebraskans stayed in the news in connection with the annual event as Ralston J. Graham, Extension editor and Information Department chairman, became president of the 600-plus member organization. He will serve a one-year term, through the 1972 annual meeting to be held in July of next year at Tucson, Ariz.

The summary of awards on communications entries received by the department included:

Earlier a film on water resources developed and produced by NU was announced as the top film for 1971 in a national contest sponsored by the Farm Film Foundation. The award included $300.

The 29-minute color film titled "Water — Nebraska's Heritage," is the first of a series of four films developed by the University's Conservation and Survey Division and the Agricultural Extension Service to fulfill a request by the Nebraska Legislature for an educational program describing the state's water resources.

Last Month One Of Warmer Junes On Record In State

By The Associated Press
The National Weather Service confirmed Thursday what many Nebraskans had already gathered — that last month was one of the warmer Junes of record.

The average temperature at 15 weather stations over the state was 73.4 degrees, or 3.1 degrees above normal.

Omaha had its warmest June since 1952 and its second warmest in 38 years, according to the monthly climatic summary. Lincoln had its warmest June since 1953, and Grand Island, since 1956.

Temperatures averaged from one to three degrees above normal in the west, and three to six degrees above normal in the east.

The average night time low of 67.6 degrees at Lincoln was the second highest in 85 years of record keeping.

McCook's 106 degree reading on June 26 was the month's high temperature. The low was 37 at Agate on June 10.

Precipitation during June was poorly distributed in both space and time, the weather service said. Some stations received more than eight inches during the month, and at least two measured more than 10 inches. Southeast Nebraska, however, had its sixth driest June in 41 years.

Buffalo Residents Due Tax Refund, But Money Gone

Kearney (UPI) — Buffalo County residents have a tax refund coming to them, but officials said they don't know where the money will come from.

Total amount of the refund, which represents an overpayment of 1969 real estate taxes, is $916,418.98.

The State Board of Equalization boosted the 1969 valuation of Buffalo County rural property by 75% and urban property by 10%.

The county appealed to the state Supreme Court, but before a decision was handed down, taxes were paid on the basis of the increased valuations.

A year ago, the high court ruled that the state board was in error and that taxpayers had a refund coming. A spokesman in the county assessor's office here said the only way the refunds could be made would be through a special levy.

Tractor Kills Wilber Youth

Wilber (UPI) — An 11-year-old boy was killed Thursday morning when the tractor he was driving overturned on the family farm three miles east and one-half mile west of here.

He was Alan Kubicek, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Kubicek.

Saline County Sheriff Edward Prokopp said the youth was found by his father about 9:45 a.m., and the boy was dead on arrival at Crete Memorial Hospital.

Prokopp said it was not immediately determined how the tractor overturned.

Mrs. Reed, 73, Fatally Injured In Tractor Fall

Valley (AP) — Funeral services were being arranged Thursday for Mrs. Elvira Reed, 73, who died in an Omaha hospital of injuries suffered in a fall from her tractor.

Hospital officials said Mrs. Reed fell while cultivating her 80-acre farm at the west edge of Omaha. A son, Vernon Reed of Bennington, said he found his mother in the field early Wednesday when a sister told him she could not reach their mother by phone.

Mrs. Reed died in the hospital several hours later.

First Teenagers In State Cast Ballots At Fairmont

Lincoln Star Special
Fairmont — Fourteen teenage voters here Thursday became the first in the 18-20-year-old Nebraskans to cast their ballots under provisions of the recently-ratified 26th amendment to the U.S. Constitution lowering the voting age.

They were participating in a special election here where approval was given to transfer $20,000 in funds made by the city's municipal power and water plants to pay the city's share of a proposed $72,000 swimming pool. The federal government will pay 50% and the state 25%.

The issue was approved by a vote of 205 for, compared to 114 against. Nineteen absentee and disabled votes will not change the outcome.

Of the 19 absentee votes, five were from the teenage group.

Murray Kahler, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kahler of Fairmont, was the first teenager to vote. He is a Kearney State College student.

West Lake At Kimball Closed Pending Encephalitis Testing

Kimball (AP) — Officials from the State Department of Health made tests at West Lake near here following the death of Connie Pauline Goodon, 12, Kimball.

A preliminary autopsy report said the girl may have died from a type of encephalitis but the exact results would not be known for at least a month pending further tests.

The girl died Monday in a Cheyenne hospital.

Kimball County health officials closed the West Lake, located near Kimball, following the preliminary report from a pathologist at Cheyenne, Wyo.

State health officials were called in to make tests, at the lake but they said samples taken from the lake must be sent to a laboratory to be analyzed before any results would be known.

Services for the girl were held Thursday at Kimball. She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Goodon, Kimball, and two brothers, Jimmy and Todd, both living at home.

DeBacker Jailed For Allegedly Abusing Officer

Omaha (AP) — Clarence DeBacker, 20, of Omaha, formerly of Fremont, has been sentenced to 30 days in the county jail on a charge of abusing an officer April 17.

Municipal Judge Paul Hickman also levied a $50 fine on DeBacker for disorderly conduct in the same incident.

Police said DeBacker shouted obscenities at them and had to be dragged from a restaurant where the officers had attempted to break up an argument involving DeBacker.

Three years ago DeBacker's attorneys appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court seeking a right to a jury trial for DeBacker, after he was sentenced through the Fremont juvenile system for forging a $30 check. The system has no jury trial.

Northeast Area Residents Eligible For Tax Relief

Omaha (AP) — Residents in nine northeast Nebraska counties declared a flood disaster area are eligible for tax relief, Richard P. Vinal, district director for the Internal Revenue service, reported Thursday.

The counties are Cedar, Dakota, Dixon, Knox, Madison, Pierce, Stanton, Thurston and Wayne.

Omaha High Dropping Mod Scheduling Plan

Omaha (AP) — Omaha South High School will abandon the modular scheduling system it has employed for the last four years.

Instead of 20 minute class sessions and long periods of self-guided study and research, South High students will ease back into the traditional 45-to-55 minute class period, Principal Leonard Hanson reported Thursday.

Burke High School will employ both the mod scheduling and traditional scheduling, but students were given the option of choosing which they would use and all but about 200 preferred the mod program.

Hanson said South is dropping the mod plan "because we don't have space for it."

A committee of teachers and parents that conducted the Omaha School District's high school evaluation last year criticized South's facilities for modular scheduling and recommended that Burke offer a choice.

Hanson said South's program will be "something in between"

Omaha High Dropping Mod Scheduling Plan

Omaha (P) — Omaha South High School will abandon the modular scheduling system it has employed for the last four years.

Instead of 20 minute class sessions and long periods of self-guided study and research, South High students will ease back into the traditional 45-to-55 minute class period, Principal Leonard Hanson reported Thursday.

Burke High School will employ both the mod scheduling and traditional scheduling, but students were given the option of choosing which they would use and all but about 200 preferred the mod program.

Hanson said South is dropping the mod plan "because we don't have space for it."

A committee of teachers and parents that conducted the Omaha School District's high school evaluation last year criticized South's facilities for modular scheduling and recommended that Burke offer a choice.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Drugs—it's an almost magic word, conjuring up all sorts of things in the minds of people young and old. It was the subject of a broad-based meeting of interested groups at the Lincoln Center Building this week, sponsored by the Lincoln Hospital and Health Council with the cooperation of University of Nebraska at Lincoln personnel.

At the meeting were groups and individuals from a wide range of community interests, including education, drug treatment groups, drug abuse assistance groups, government, social agencies, health agencies, medical representatives, etc. A number of encouraging things transpired at the meeting.

For one, well over a hundred people turned out, all of them concerned that the community do something to solve the so-called drug problem. Secondly, there was a unanimity of opinion that the community's efforts be coordinated to assure maximum utilization of all resources and knowledge.

Finally, reports made on studies that have been done in the area on the extent of the problem indicated that the situation in Lincoln is not yet critical, although it obviously could become so. This, it seems, shows that there is the will to do something and maybe even time to get it done.

But time cannot be wasted. Toward that end, the Lincoln Council on Alcoholism, the Lincoln Hospital and Health Council and the Mayor's Task Force on Drugs were charged with organizing into a steering committee representatives of the various groups at the meeting.

From this it is hoped will come a unified effort to map out a program of prevention and treatment. What agency will be the ultimate focal point of the effort is still to be determined, although the Council on Alcoholism already has done some preliminary work in the area in cooperation with the Mayor's Task Force on Drugs.

A third group, identified at the meeting as The Looking Glass Group, reports that it is working in the field, so to speak, at this moment. It works directly with those who need help as the result of a drug problem.

It is not surprising that considerable skepticism was heard at the meeting—skepticism of "another" meeting and the formation of "another" organization to draw up plans. Meetings and planning are not what is needed, it was said, but rather, it is time for action.

That is a commendable show of enthusiasm but the fact remains that you can't do anything until you plan what you are going to do. You just can't start out for somewhere without knowing where you are going.

At this point, the community needs information about what can be done to assist in the area of drug abuse. If drug use, as it was stated, is a symptom of something rather than a problem all its own, what are the root causes and what can be done about them?

Once you have a drug-user, what kind of treatment program is best? Some cities have developed some good programs and Lincoln needs to find out what they are. We need, too, all the knowledge and understanding and help of any groups and individuals in the city who have any familiarity with the matter.

Ultimately, it is expected that financial support will be needed and some of it, at least, will have to come right out of our community. But it should be recognized that there is no real alternative.

The drug situation in Lincoln is not something to panic over but if it is ignored, it could end up a panic situation. Granted, it could also pass away but this is not very likely, judging from the status of things around the nation as a whole.

Lincoln is to be commended for the concern it has demonstrated in this area to date. The groups mentioned above and others have gotten a start but we are still at the beginning stage of things.

It is hoped that the meeting this week does produce the coordinated program that everyone says he wants. No program would be a disgrace and too many programs would be a dissipation of resources that would leave the problem unsolved. It is a serious challenge for all those who want Lincoln to remain a good place in which to live and a city in which one can have pride.

President Dubbed Grabber Of Glory

WASHINGTON — Glory Grabber — Congressional leaders are hot under the collar over the way President Nixon grabbed the glory after the adoption of the 26th amendment, which gives 18- and 20-year-olds the right to vote in all elections. The President held a big certification ceremony and basked in the spotlight, although he had shown no previous enthusiasm for the amendment. Privately, he had misgivings that most of the 11 million newly enfranchised young voters might vote against him in 1972. Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., who first introduced the amendment in 1942 and contacted state governors and legislative leaders to push its ratification, was not even invited to the certification ceremony. Neither were Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., and Rep. Manny Celler, D-N.Y., who engineered the amendment through the Senate and House, respectively.

that he concentrate instead on raising money.

Lockheed Loses — Senate Banking Chairman John Sparkman, D-Ala., took a beating behind closed doors when he tried to ram a bill through his committee to bail out Lockheed. The giant defense contractor is seeking to recover its losses from the taxpayers. At the secret session, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., needed Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., for voting for Lockheed. Proxmire reminded Tower that he had agreed to further hearings before voting on a general bail-out bill. "I'm enough of a reactionary," snorted Tower, "to change my mind." Proxmire won the showdown, however, with the backing of Senators Ed Brooke, R-Mass., Alan Cranston, D-Calif., Bob Packwood, R-Ore., William Roth, Jr., R-Del., Adlai Stevenson III, D-Ill., and Robert Taft, Jr., R-Ohio. Sparkman obediently scheduled more hearings.

Public Works—The AFL-CIO is lobbying on Capitol Hill for votes to override President Nixon's veto of the public works bills. In a private letter to Senate Public Works Chairman Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., the labor organization pointed out that work could be started on 3,000 water and sewer projects and 1,900 hospital and health centers. These projects, the letter contends, would create about 170,000 urgently needed jobs and generate enough additional economic activity to produce as many as 450,000 job opportunities.

Valedictory Address

Governor Has A Point

Gov. J. James Exon has taken issue, and perhaps properly so, with an editorial position on this page some days ago relative to the registration of 18-year-olds in the high schools. We had questioned the wisdom of the idea, along with other suggestions made by people outside the governor's office for voter registration of young people.

The governor argues that we should not look at all times at all the evils that could befall us by doing something constructive and different. He argues that if high school principals are not qualified and honest enough to register people to vote, then they shouldn't be holding their office in the first place.

Maybe he is right. If there still remains some question on the matter, however, there are other avenues that could be approached.

Election officials themselves could go to the schools, including the colleges where more 18-to-20-year-olds would actually be found, and conduct registrations. High schools might include a trip to the election commissioners office as a part of some class in civics, government, citizenship or what have you.

When visiting the office, all 18-year-olds could register.

The governor properly makes the point that we should exert an extra effort to bring the newly eligible young voters actively into the political process. After all, we try to educate and train them in many other ways, so why not this way?

And it would certainly be an asset if we could, in time, produce an entire population that took its voting responsibilities seriously. This is not the case today, as one election after another is decided by something less than 60 per cent of the eligible voters. We still don't buy all the registration suggestions being made by everyone at this time but we have to say that the governor is right in wanting to go the extra mile for the sake of getting new, young voters registered.

Privacy Still Counts

We have to side with the Grand Island man who has filed a court action against enforcement of state boating laws on his private lake. We have no thought of influencing the court in this matter and comment upon it in the conviction that the judiciary will do as the law dictates, not as any outside opinion might be formed.

The whole question is whether the state law on the operation of boats should be enforced on private lakes. As the law stands, it is directed at private as well as public waters but the Grand Island man claims this is unconstitutional.

Whether he is right in the law or not, he is right in principle. There are often times when the public welfare will infringe upon the rights of individuals as private citizens. There are times when the state must act even to protect individuals against themselves, such as the law requiring motorcyclists to wear helmets.

But none of these considerations seem paramount in this case. It just seems to us that if a man has a private lake he ought to be permitted to use it as he sees fit. After all, a family can swim in its own swimming pool without a lifeguard even though such guards are required at public pools.

It is important that we constantly guard against government infringement upon individual rights and privacy. When such rights or privacy must be abridged, so be it, but those occasions should be held to a minimum.

They should be abridged only when there is an overriding public consideration for doing so and we can't see that in the case of a private lake. If such regulation is needed, it at least should be limited to private lakes owned or used by more than three or four individuals. A private lake under single ownership should be the business of that owner.

Military Reign Of Terror In East Pakistan; 'Practical' Men Have Maintained Silence

LONDON — After Hitler, there were many — and not only Germans by any means — who said they had had no idea of the extent of the horror. They knew terrible things were happening, but 6 million Jews in the gas chambers...

Similarly with Stalin's terror in the Soviet Union, it took years for people even in the West to appreciate the level of brutality and murder that obtained. And in Vietnam: Most of us failed for too long to understand the inevitable consequences of American tactics in terms of human misery, death and destruction.

Right now another immense human disaster is taking place for political reasons. This time there can be no excuse for any informed person failing to understand what is happening; contemporary accounts leave little of the horror to the imagination. And yet, somehow, some responsible men still do not see.

The disaster is in East Pakistan. Since West Pakistani troops moved in last spring to suppress the eastern political movement, 6 million people have fled to India. Tens, probably hundreds, of thousands have been killed. And the feeble Pakistani propaganda claim to be dealing only with "miscreants" does not conceal the fact that the army is killing and terrorizing on grounds of race and politics.

A first-hand account of the savagery appeared on June 13 in the Sunday Times of London. It was by Anthony Mascarenhas, a West Pakistani journalist who went to the East with a group at the army's invitation but saw that he came to Britain to tell the truth.

Mascarenhas saw the troops kill men because they were not circumcised and were therefore presumptively Hindu. He saw Bengali Moslem villages burnt. West Pakistani officers told him they were ready to prevent the East's secession, if necessary, by killing 2 million people and running the country as a colony for 30 years. He concluded that they were determined to push through their "final solution" of the East Bengal problem.

Within the last few days, that picture of life under the army in East Pakistan has had authoritative and independent confirmation from two weighty sources. Both make clear, moreover, that the terror did not stop soon after the army takeover but has continued.

One of these sources is the report by a joint team of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund, just distributed to the bank's directors. It found a continuing reign of military terror in East Pakistan. Much of the urban population has been killed or has fled, the report said; guerrilla activity is growing.

The other persuasive confirmation comes from four members of the British Parliament who have just toured the area. Two were Conservative and two Labor M.P.s; they went at the invitation of the Pakistan government and were hardly prejudiced against it. But they came back saying they were sickened by what one called the army's "continuing repression, using the most brutal methods."

Now General Yahya Khan is not Hitler, and it is doubtless true that his government did not set out deliberately to commit mass murder and destruction in its eastern territory. But those are the results.

That is why the silence in some quarters is so puzzling. President Nixon has said nothing. That great moralist, U. Thant, who regularly criticizes American action in Vietnam, has not had much to say about racial killing by Pakistani soldiers. And there are many others.

The answer must be that they are all practical men: Yahya is in charge, and so it is necessary to do business with him. That is the import of recent testimony by a State Department official who said that a cut-off of American aid would "undermine the productive political relations with the government of Pakistan."

Even in practical terms, that is a doubtful argument. The World Bank mission reported that chaos in East Pakistan precluded effective use of aid

Recycling Of Glass

NEW YORK —The people of America have it in their power to make money—instead of pollution; to save money—and save the environment. If they only were aware.

"People are talking more about 'recycling' these days than they are about the weather," says a man who can make them aware. "But it seems that very few people understand what recycling is all about..."

"They don't realize that the ketchup bottles, the jelly jars, the no-return soda bottles, the glass containers of all kinds, are among the most easily recycled of all consumed packages. Glass can be melted and reused over and over in the manufacture of new bottles and jars and other useful products."

"Thousands of tons of used glass—crushed into cullet—are being used right now to make molten glass for new containers. They are also being used to make effective road surfacing and new construction materials for housing."

"But the average housewife, who hasn't been told these things, continues to throw away used glass. A waste."

Richard L. Cheney is president of the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute, and of the Materials Disposal Research Council. He says that some day, mechanized plants will be able to extract and recover glass and many other valuable materials from household refuse. Meantime, however, until this "total systems" approach is economically feasible, the glass container industry is buying back its used bottles from the public at "a coast-to-coast network of redemption centers in 25 states."

"During the first three months of 1971, under this system, waste glass was recycled at an annual pace of more than 400 million jars and bottles. We expect soon, with increased public awareness, to increase that tempo to half-a-billion bottles a year."

"If you live in a community where bottles are collected for recycling into new glass containers, you can take them to the nearest collection site and be reimbursed for your trouble—and thoughtfulness."

"But even if there is no glass container plant for miles around," says Cheney, "a community can get together and decide to reuse its jars and bottles effectively."

"The answer is to crush the bottles into aggregate for a new blacktop paving material known as 'glasphalt,' which can be used for paving a schoolyard, a public parking lot or a street. The citizens of Omaha, Neb., this spring collected 65 tons of used jars and bottles and arranged to have them crushed for glasphalt—convincing city officials to use the new material for resurfacing a downtown city block."

The U.S. Bureau of Mines is experimenting with waste glass as a basic raw material for bricks, building blocks and glass wool insulation. The bricks, in which salvaged container glass serves as a binder, are tough, durable and architecturally attractive. They contain up to 80 per cent reclaimed glass.

"But that's only the beginning. We are now experimenting with terrazzo tile flooring made from reclaimed glass—and insulated wall panels, sewer pipes, reflective highway paints and costume jewelry."

Glass holds a unique position in the environment. It is made from sand, and therefore is impervious to chemical and bacteriological action, Cheney points out.

"Glass does not rust, rot, decompose, decay, burn, biodegrade or putrefy. Ground into small particles, it can be returned to the earth—virtually as the sand from which it came."

But with the world's population ever increasing, glass is needed by people more than the earth from which it came. And the glass in today's empty pop bottle can economically be made to "live again" in next week's milk jug or blood plasma flask. It can be melted and re-melted, usefully, without impairment, unto eternity.

"There are more potential uses for glass containers than all the used bottles and jars in all the refuse dumps in America could provide," Cheney suggests, "so get together with your neighbors and try to keep it from being wasted..."

On Compassion

Lincoln, Neb.

Regarding Dewey's Nemetz letter of July 9, "Jury Is Out." Johnny Rogers is not an adult; he is a teenager (19). Rogers needs encouragement, not a kick when he is already down. Who is Mr. Nemetz to judge him? Hasn't he ever heard of compassion? Our Lord is noted for it. I recommend that Mr. Nemetz examine his conscience every night.

I don't know Johnny, I've never seen him except on TV. But I would be proud if he were my son.

As to playing "shoulder to shoulder" with those who abide by the law — what law? All of us have broken God's law. That the reason Christ was crucified — to save us. As for the civil law, many who have broken the law have not been caught. Johnny was caught and, fortunately for him, his first mistake will guide him to right.

Since Mr. Nemetz presumes to know more than the courts, the University of Nebraska, and Coach Devaney, I suggest he run for president. Since he claims to be perfect, it ought to be a cinch!

There are two four-letter words he should bear in mind. "Hate" won't get you anywhere; "love" can conquer the world.

National Rule

Wilber, Neb.

I've figured it's my turn to write a letter to the people who read The Lincoln Star, concerning the town and baseball team of Wilber.

This has a main bearing on the letter sent in by "B. J. H." of Dorchester, and all others, wherever they may be from, including Wilber.

I'm not running down Dorchester, Wilber, or any other town, because I feel they are good towns and they have a lot of good people.

It seems that people start to rattle off things before they know what has happened and what has taken place.

The person from Dorchester said that maybe it is the rule of the Wilber ball club that its players have short hair, but it wasn't the rule of the Kansas club, and Wilber had no right to turn them away.

I would like to correct this person and all others: it isn't the Wilber baseball team who is enforcing this rule, and it just isn't a rule for the Wilber team.

The American Legion Baseball Book for 1971 has the playing regulations for all the teams in the United States, which makes it a national rule, meaning and including every team.

On Page Five, under Rule 1 (H), it says: "Players' hair shall not be worn so long as to interfere with the proper wearing of a baseball cap or the protective batting helmet. The hair, including sideburns, no longer than bottom of ear lobe, will be well-groomed and neatly trimmed around the ears and back of neck at all times. Players' faces will be clean-shaven."

I hope this will ease the long-hair fans, that the Wilber baseball team does not have anything to do with what the players from other towns look like, because we just want to play baseball, and it is the Wilber Legion that is enforcing the rule, which wasn't made up by them.

The Wilber baseball team and I as a coach don't like the rule, either, but we can't change the rule.

In Wilber I hear people talking about the rule, for and against. It seems that there is a lot of concern about it, and all the people, or most of them, complaining for and against never show up for a baseball game.

They would do the Wilber team a lot of good if they would support the team at home and away. We would like to see a big backing on July 23 at 7:00 p.m. when we play either Crete or Wymore in the semifinals of the district tournament.

Thank you!

COACH ROGER KALKWARF

Thank You

Lincoln, Neb.

Girl Scouting has always been deeply involved in community service because hundreds of women, men and youth give freely of their time and effort to this commitment. Our gift to the Lincoln area in June was a day camp, serving 700 girls at Cornhusker Training Center.

We appreciated The Star's coverage very much. We especially thank all the many people who helped ready the site, plus unit leaders, program consultants, and other organizations.

Thanks to Lincoln's TRY program for accepting our invitation to share the site during third session. The Park Department's Show Wagon was another welcome guest.

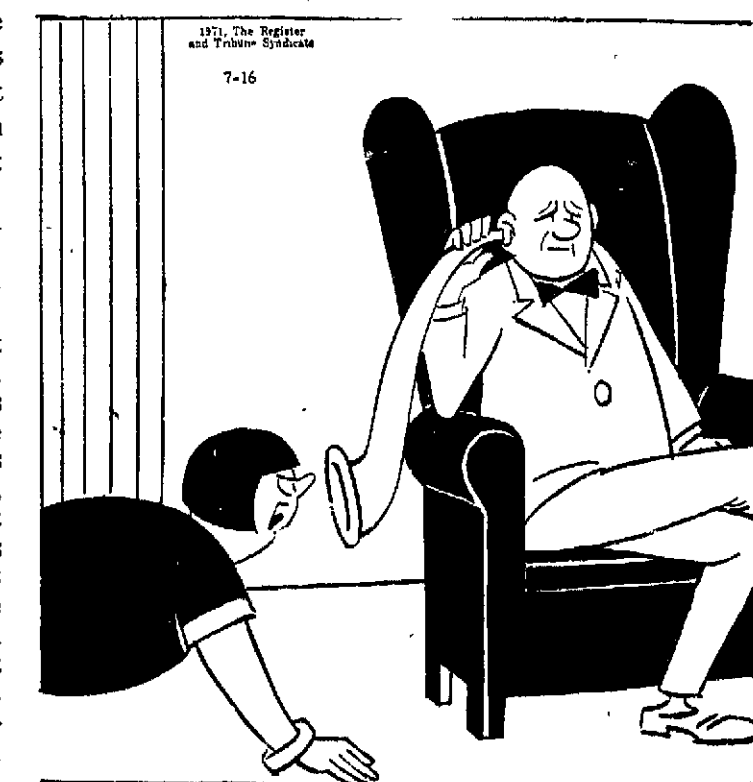

And our deep appreciation goes to those residents of Madonna Professional Care Center who brightened one day by joining us at an all-camp program. It reminded us that sharing, across the ages, is one of the joys in life.

Those of us who are involved in year-around planning for this camp see its purpose as more than fun. Both children and adults grow in maturity as they work, play and live together in an outdoor setting.

Governor Has A Point

Gov. J. James Exon has taken issue, and perhaps properly so, with an editorial position on this page some days ago relative to the registration of 18-year-olds in the high schools. We had questioned the wisdom of the idea, along with other suggestions made by people outside the governor's office for voter registration of young people.

The governor argues that we should not look at all times at all the evils that could befall us by doing something constructive and different. He argues that if high school principals are not qualified and honest enough to register people to vote, then they shouldn't be holding their office in the first place.

Maybe he is right. If there still remains some question on the matter, however, there are other avenues that could be explored.

Letters To The Editor

Brevity in letters is requested but length in itself will have no bearing on publication. Writers are advised that needless details and repetitious matter will be edited out of letters. Too frequent contributions from one person on the same subject may be rejected. All letters must be accompanied by writer's true name but may be submitted for publication under a pen name or initials. However, letters will be printed under a pen name or initials at the editor's discretion.

On Compassion

Lincoln, Neb.

Regarding Dewey's Nemetz' letter of July 9, "Jury Is Out": Johnny Rogers is not an adult; he is a teenager (19). Rogers needs encouragement, not a kick when he is already down. Who is Mr. Nemetz to judge him? Hasn't he ever heard of compassion? Our Lord is noted for it. I recommend that Mr. Nemetz examine his conscience every night.

I don't know Johnny, I've never seen him except on TV. But I would be proud if he were my son.

As to playing "shoulder to shoulder" with those who abide by the law—what law? All of us have broken God's law. That the reason Christ was crucified—to save us. As for the civil law, many who have broken the law have not been caught. Johnny was caught and, fortunately for him, his first mistake will guide him to right.

Since Mr. Nemetz presumes to know more than the courts, the University of Nebraska, and Coach Devaney, I suggest he run for president. Since he claims to be perfect, it ought to be a cinch!

There are two four-letter words he should bear in mind.

"Hate" won't get you anywhere; "love" can conquer the world.

National Rule

Wilber, Neb.

I've figured it's my turn to write a letter to the people who read The Lincoln Star, concerning the town and baseball team of Wilber.

This has a main bearing on the letter sent in by "B. J. H." of Dorchester, and all others, wherever they may be from, including Wilber.

I'm not running down Dorchester, Wilber, or any other town, because I feel they are good towns and they have a lot of good people.

It seems that people start to rattle off things before they know what has happened and what has taken place.

The person from Dorchester said that maybe it is the rule of the Wilber ball club that its players have short hair, but it wasn't the rule of the Kansas club, and Wilber had no right to turn them away.

I would like to correct this person and all others; it isn't the Wilber baseball team who is enforcing this rule, and it just isn't a rule for the Wilber team.

The American Legion Baseball Book for 1971 has the playing regulations for all the teams in the United States, which makes it a national rule, meaning and including every team.

On Page Five, under Rule 1 (H), it says: "Players' hair shall not be worn so long as to interfere with the proper wearing of a baseball cap or the protective batting helmet. The hair, including sideburns, no longer than bottom of ear lobe, will be well-groomed and neatly trimmed around the ears and back of neck at all times. Players' faces will be clean-shaven."

I hope this will ease the long-hair fans, that the Wilber baseball team does not have anything to do with what the players from other towns look like, because we just want to play baseball, and it is the Wilber Legion that is enforcing the rule, which wasn't made up by them.

The Wilber baseball team and I as a coach don't like the rule, either, but we can't change the rule.

In Wilber I hear people talking about the rule, for and against. It seems that there is a lot of concern about it, and all the people, or most of them, complaining for and against never show up for a baseball game.

They would do the Wilber team a lot of good if they would support the team at home and away. We would like to see a big backing on July 23 at 7:00 p.m., when we play either Crete or Wymore in the semifinals of the district tournament.

Thank you!

Thank You

Lincoln, Neb.

Girl Scouting has always been deeply involved in community service because hundreds of women, men and youth give freely of their time and effort to this commitment. Our gift to the Lincoln area in June was a day camp, serving 700 girls at Cornhusker Training Center.

We appreciated The Star's coverage very much. We especially thank all the many people who helped ready the site, plus unit leaders, program consultants, and other organizations.

Thanks to Lincoln's TRY program for accepting our invitation to share the site during third session. The Park Department's Show Wagon was another welcome guest.

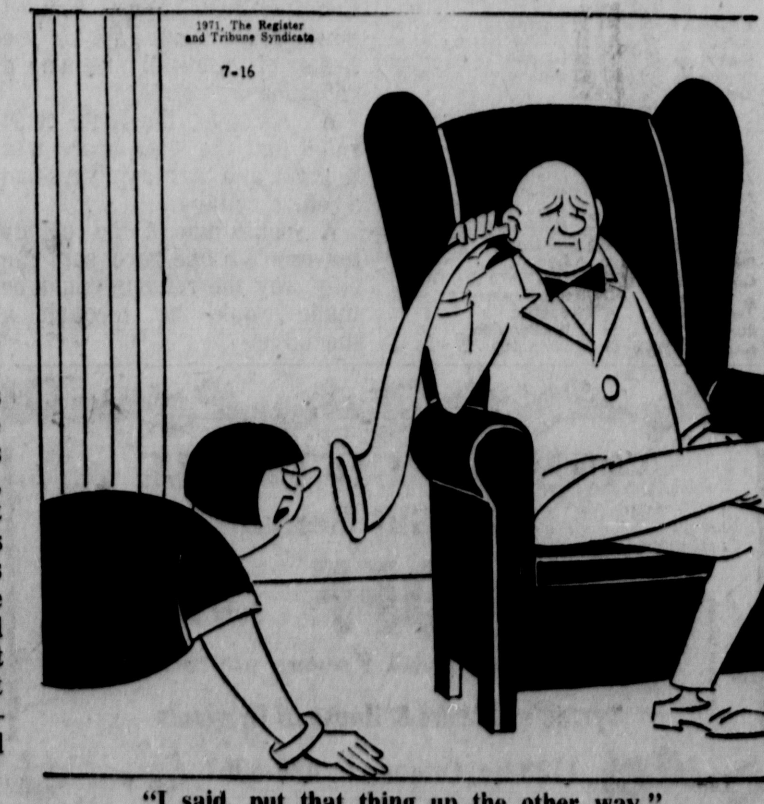

And our deep appreciation goes to those residents of Madonna Professional Care Center who brightened one day by joining us at an all-camp program. It reminded us that sharing, across the ages, is one of the joys in life.

Those of us who are involved in year-around planning for this camp see its purpose as more than fun. Both children and adults grow in maturity as they work, play and live together in an outdoor setting.

President Dubbed Grabber Of Glory

WASHINGTON — Glory Grabber — Congressional leaders are hot under the collar over the way President Nixon grabbed the glory after the adoption of the 26th amendment, which gives 18-, 19- and 20-year-olds the right to vote in all elections. The President held a big certification ceremony and basked in the spotlight, although he had shown no previous enthusiasm for the amendment. Privately, he had misgivings that most of the 11 million newly enfranchised young voters might vote against him in 1972. Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., who first introduced the amendment in 1942 and contacted state governors and legislative leaders to push its ratification, wasn't even invited to the certification ceremony. Neither were Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., and Rep. Manny Celler, D-N.Y., who engineered the amendment through the Senate and House, respectively.

Democratic Finances

There has been a lot of huffing in the back-rooms over Howard Samuels' campaign to withhold Democratic party funds from candidates who don't support liberal anti-war policies. The New York political gadfly joined the finance council, then immediately began agitating for the Democrats to put their money where their mouths were. At one secret session, Chairman Larry O'Brien snapped back at Samuels for trying to tell the party how to spend its money and suggested that he concentrate instead on raising money.

Lockheed Loses

Senate Banking Chairman John Sparkman, D-Ala., took a beating behind closed doors when he tried to ram a bill through his committee to bail out Lockheed. The giant defense contractor is seeking to recover its losses from the taxpayers. At the secret session, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., needed Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., for voting for Lockheed. Proxmire reminded Tower that he had agreed to further hearings before voting on a general bail-out bill. "I'm enough of a reactionary," snorted Tower, "to change my mind." Proxmire won the showdown, however, with the backing of Senators Ed Brooke, R-Mass., Alan Cranston, D-Calif., Bob Packwood, R-Ore., William Roth, Jr., D-Del., Adlai Stevenson III, D-Ill., and Robert Taft, Jr., R-Ohio. Sparkman obediently scheduled more hearings.

Public Works—The AFL-CIO

is lobbying on Capitol Hill for votes to override President Nixon's veto of the public works bills. In a private letter to Senate Public Works Chairman Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., the labor organization pointed out that work could be started on 3,000 water and sewer projects and 1,900 hospital and health centers. These projects, the letter contends, would create about 170,000 urgently needed jobs and generate enough additional economic activity to produce as many as 450,000 job opportunities.

Military Reign Of Terror In East Pakistan; 'Practical' Men Have Maintained Silence

LONDON — After Hitler, there were many — and not only Germans by any means — who said they had had no idea of the extent of the horror. They knew terrible things were happening, but 6 million Jews in the gas chambers...

Similarly with Stalin's terror in the Soviet Union, it took years for people even in the West to appreciate the level of brutality and murder that obtained. And in Vietnam: Most of us failed for too long to understand the inevitable consequences of American tactics in terms of human misery, death and destruction.

Right now another immense human disaster is taking place for political reasons. This time there can be no excuse for any informed person failing to understand what is happening; contemporary accounts leave little of the horror to the imagination. And yet, somehow, some responsible men still do not see.

The disaster is in East Pakistan. Since West Pakistani troops moved in last spring to suppress the eastern political movement, 6 million people have fled to India. Tens, probably hundreds, of thousands have been killed. And the feeble Pakistani propaganda claim to be dealing only with "miscreants" does not conceal the fact that the army is killing and terrorizing on grounds of race and politics.

A first-hand account of the savagery appeared on June 13 in the Sunday Times of London. It was by Anthony Mascarenhas, a West Pakistani journalist who went to the East with a group at the army's invitation but saw that he came to Britain to tell the truth.

Mascarenhas saw the troops kill men because they were not circumcised—and were therefore presumptively Hindus. He saw Bengali Moslem villages burnt. West Pakistani officers told him they were ready to prevent the East's secession, if necessary, by killing 2 million people and running the country as a colony for 30 years. He concluded that they meant it, that they were determined to push through their "final solution" of the East Bengal problem.

Within the last few days, that picture of life under the army in East Pakistan has had authoritative and independent confirmation from two weighty sources. Both make clear, moreover, that the terror did not stop soon after the army takeover but has continued.

One of these sources is the report by a joint team of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund, just distributed to the bank's directors. It found a continuing reign of military terror in East Pakistan. Much of the urban population has been killed or has fled, the report said; guerrilla activity is growing.

The other persuasive confirmed comes from four members of the British Parliament who have just toured the area. Two were Conservative and two Labor M.P.s; they went at the invitation of the Pakistan government and were hardly prejudiced against it. But they came back saying they were sickened by what one called the army's "continuing repression, using the most brutal methods."

Now General Yahya Khan is not Hitler, and it is doubtless true that his government did not set out deliberately to commit mass murder and destruction in its eastern territory. But those are the results.

That is why the silence in some quarters is so puzzling. President Nixon has said nothing. That great moralist, U. Thant, who regularly criticizes American action in Vietnam, has not had much to say about racial killing by Pakistani soldiers. And there are many others.

The answer must be that they are all practical men: Yahya is in charge, and so it is necessary to do business with him. That is the import of recent testimony by a State Department official who said that a cut-off of American aid would "undermine the productive political relations with the government of Pakistan."

Even in practical terms, that is a doubtful argument. The World Bank mission reported that chaos in East Pakistan precluded effective use of aid

now. The British government, among others, has said there must first be a political settlement — necessarily meaning some form of autonomy for the East.

Regional Prentice, who was minister for overseas development in the Labor government, wrote after visiting Pakistan that outside economic pressure on the Pakistani generals was the "only hope." His experience in the aid field, he said, made him think it was "wrong in 99 cases out of 100 to attach political condition — but this the 100th."

There are now reports in London that the Chinese government is reassessing its commitment to Yahya Khan; it may have come to feel that a split between East and West Pakistan is inevitable. Hopefully, Henry Kissinger will bring back from his visit to Pakistan a realistic appraisal of the political future.

But the American interest goes beyond realism. We can no longer have any illusions about our ability to make unpleasant governments around the world behave well, but there does come a point at which self-respect requires us to stop helping them. That is why an American official, one who is certainly a realist, said the other day: "There is not much we can do about East Pakistan, but I dislike — pardon the phrase — our moral posture."

Minh Says Survival Hinges On Coexistence, Fair Vote

Saigon (AP) — Gen. Duong Van "Big" Minh said Thursday a fair presidential election and a policy of coexistence with North Vietnam are South Vietnam's only hopes for survival.

"If President Thieu is re-elected in a fair election, the people will support him — including those of us who oppose him in the election," Minh said.

"But if he is elected in a dishonest election, I am not certain his administration can last very long. There will be many discontented people, and this can only help the Communists."

A Popular Figure

The 56-year-old retired general, who led the coup which ousted President Ngo Dinh Diem in 1963, is one of South Vietnam's most popular political figures. He is regarded as the top challenger to President Nguyen Van Thieu in the Oct. 3 presidential election.

"Do I have confidence that South Vietnam can coexist with North Vietnam? I only know that is the one way to save Vietnam, to stop killing each other, and to keep Vietnam from falling into the hands of foreign powers — whether Communist or non-Communist," Minh said.

"Because of that, the presidential election is very, very important."

Coexistence is the keystone of Minh's electoral platform, enunciated in a speech last June 17.

He said then conciliation between the two Vietnams must be based on "a formula of peaceful coexistence denying either side the right to exterminate the other," and that such conciliation would be possible "only when North Vietnam recognizes the non-Communist nature of South Vietnam and accepts division for the time being."

Honest Vote Crucial

Minh explained Thursday that an honest election is crucial because "if the people can vote freely, they will have confidence in the resulting government — and a government with the confidence of the people will be in a good position to negotiate with North Vietnam."

Minh said the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong now have the initiative at the Paris peace talks because "no one believes or supports the Thieu government."

He charged that American support of Thieu and "repression" by the Thieu regime could prevent fair elections in October, putting much of the blame on U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker.

Minh labeled Bunker "a great specialist in elections of this type," citing the ambassador's role in the Dominican Republic after the 1965 revolt there and in the 1967 South Vietnamese elections.

Minh said he was certain he could get the 40 National Assembly endorsements required to enter the presidential race, and that Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky could probably get the necessary 100 endorsements from province and city councilmen.

Study Finds Black Health, Housing, Status Up

Washington (AP) — The gap between blacks and whites narrowed during the 1960s as measured by several significant social and economic indicators, a new federally financed study said Thursday.

The study found blacks catching up with whites in health — as measured by infant mortality and life expectancy; quality of housing and employment — as measured by unemployment rates and percentages in clerical, professional and technical occupations.

But by two indicators of family stability, female-headed families and children living with both parents, blacks fell further behind whites over the period.

While the rate of improvement in income was greater for blacks than whites in the 1960s, the salary gap — measured by median income and percentage of families with incomes greater than $8,000 a year — widened in favor of whites.

Median income of whites rose from $6,857 in 1960 to $8,937 in 1968. This compared to $8,937 in and $5,590 or blacks.

Heart Disease No. 1 Killer; Mental Illness No. 1 Crippler

New York (AP) — Major heart diseases remain the No. 1 killer in the United States, accounting for 53% of all deaths, the National Health Education Committee reported Thursday.

Cardiovascular diseases, largely due to arteriosclerosis or hardening of the arteries, claimed an estimated 1,021,380 lives in 1968, the report said.

The 1½-inch-thick study compiled over the last year and entitled "Facts on the Major Killing and Crippling Diseases in the United States," said cancer was second most deadly accounting for 17% of all deaths; accidents next with 6% and pneumonia and influenza ranking fourth with 4%.

Homicide ranked 11th.

The report said mental illness was the biggest crippler in the nation.

Low Spending Hit

Mrs. Albert D. Lasker, committee chairman, in a statement accompanying the voluminous 1971 report, decried the low level of federal medical research funding.

She said Americans spent as much — $1.5 billion — for boxed candy and chewing gum in 1968 as was appropriated by the federal government in 1970 for the major medical research programs of the National Institute of Health, and Mental Health Administration and regional medical centers.

The government appropriated $1.5 billion for "research into cancer, the heart diseases, mental disorders, eye diseases, arthritis and metabolic diseases, neurological diseases and stroke, allergy and infectious diseases, general medical sciences, child health and human development, environmental health sciences, research resources, biologic standards and mental health, all combined," Mrs. Lasker said.

"Not only for government, but our citizens, too, give extraordinary priorities to their spending," she said, noting that individuals spent $15 billion for alcoholic beverages, 18 billion for tobacco and smokers' accessories, over $2 billion for photographic equipment, and almost $899 million for greeting cards.

"Health research more than pays its own way," she said, adding that between 1944 and 1967, wage earners whose lives were extended thanks to medicine paid an estimated $12.8 billion in income taxes. During the same period, she said, the government appropriated $8.7 billion to its National Institutes of Health.

Death Rate Off

The report showed a national death rate of 9.7 per 1,000 population in 1968, compared to one of 11.3 in 1930.

During the 10-year period ending 1968, the polio death rate decreased 100%, due largely to vaccines, while antibiotics and other drugs helped reduce the tuberculosis death rate 51% the report said.

While 318,910 persons died of cancer in 1968, the report said an estimated 52 million persons now alive in this country will eventually have cancer and 34 million will die from it unless prevention techniques or treatments are discovered.

Pointing out that 24% of the cardiovascular deaths occur in the "working age" group between 25 and 64 years of age, the report called for intensified research to save some of $82 billion in lost income and excise taxes.

20 Million

The report estimated that 20 million people suffer from some form of mental or emotional illness, including at least 478,000 children.

An estimated 21,290 Americans committed suicide during 1968, the study said, and the suicide rate among 15- to 24-year-olds increased 67% in the decade ending 1968.

"In addition, since it is estimated that there are eight suicide attempts for every suicide committed, there are perhaps as many as 400,000 people who will attempt suicide this year," the report said.

Police Halt Soviet Jews' Hunger Strike

Moscow (UPI) — Police stopped a hunger strike by Soviet Jews seeking emigration to Israel Thursday and held about 30 of them in custody, Jewish sources said.

Those detained may be forcibly returned to their native Georgian Republic, the sources said.

Between 50 and 100 militiamen entered the central telegraph buildings near the Kremlin about 4 a.m. The Jews had been fasting among benches and writing tables since Monday.

There were about 44 Jews in the vaulted hall and police led them out without a struggle, the sources said.

Police took all of them to a nearby sobering-up station for Alcoholics where 10 Muscovite Jews were freed about noon after getting warnings of "criminal prosecution" for further demonstrations of the kind, the sources said.

POSTCARD

Stan Delaplane

From Quebec City it's a thousand miles round trip to the end of the Gaspé peninsula. Which, all Quebec people say, is heaven on earth.

American tourists come here. But just as many Quebecois choose it for their vacations. The Gaspé is the bulging lower lip of the St. Lawrence seaway. Where we are, halfway up, it takes two and a half hours to cross to the north shore. (You drive up on one shore. Return to Quebec on the other.)

The river is silver. The sunsets are magnificent. Somewhere in the river islands here, Walker's fleet was sunk. (Who was Walker? The tourist brochures are beautifully printed—I have a table stacked with them. Can't find out who Walker was.)

Probably an English general or admiral. In Quebec City, fortified walls high above the river, the Plains of Abraham is a beautifully kept park.

Here the English General James Wolfe defeated the French General Montcalm. The battle lasted 10 minutes—one of those things where both sides lined up, standing shoulder to shoulder.

"Fire first, gentlemen of France!"

"No, you fire first, gentlemen of England!"

Bang. Rough duty for soldiers in those black gunpowder days.

Both generals were killed.

None of this "too far up to wear a tie, too far back to get shot at."

Generals stood in plain sight. Magnificently uniformed—and a prime target.

Montcalm was buried in Quebec. Wolfe was shipped back to England, preserved in a cask of rum. England became ruler of New France. The Quebecois went right on talking French. Eight of every ten do so to this day.

All along the shore of the St. Lawrence piles of driftwood are stacked like Indian teepees.

I asked and the waiter said: "We pile it up as it drifts in and, on feast days, like St. Jean Baptiste Day, we light them for bonfires."

He said it was a splendid sight. Great fires shooting into the sky on both sides of the seaway. For 500 miles, all the way down to fortified Quebec and the other side of the river where Wolfe set up his bombardment cannon.

There's a sales tax of eight per cent in Canada. It seems to be on everything.

The other day I met Quebec's Mayor Gilles La Montagne. He has an elegant office. French period furniture. Tapestries. Antique prints of the city.

Who ever heard of a Beerwich?

I said: "What's the main job for a mayor in Quebec?"

He brightened up immediately. His favorite subject.

He said: "Taxes: You know nearly everybody who works in Quebec lives outside Quebec. Where I cannot tax them." (Where have you heard that before?)

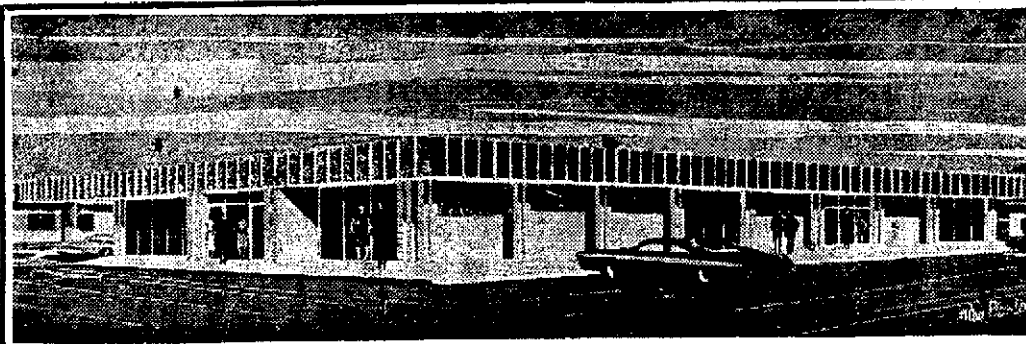

The mayor wished me a pleasant visit in Quebec — "la Belle Province". He said please come back and have lunch. (So he could tell me more about taxes?)

Canada has 22 million people.

An ambitious social security system. Our boy got chicken pox and, when I took him to the hospital, they wouldn't let me pay for it.

The doctor said: "Our people get it free. So you should, too."

MOST AMAZING HEARING AID

In the years of experience that the writer has been in the hearing aid business, the new MAICO Mark 100 behind-the-ear instrument is the most revolutionary advancement change he has seen. It's amazing—It's astonishing—It's unbelievable—People who have worn it can't believe their own ears—Most unwanted noises disappear—it makes "selective hearing" a reality. We would be glad to compare it with any hearing aid now in use that is in a similar power range or even those that may have a greater gain—HEARING IS BELIEVING.

Dismissal Motion Nixed In Hastings School Case

By United Press International
The State Court of Industrial Relations ruled Thursday the signing of teaching contracts does not seal off the possibility of changes in terms being made by a later court decision.

The court made the decision in connection with a suit filed by the Hastings Education Association, representing the teachers, against the Hastings School Board.

The teachers had requested the court to step in and settle an impasse over salary schedules for next year.

Petition Filed
However, the board filed a petition asking the court to dismiss the case on the grounds the teachers had signed contracts before the court had had a chance to rule on the wage matter, and therefore no dispute in fact exists.

The industrial court Thursday overruled the dismissal motion, and at the same time ordered that a trial be held Aug. 23 on the teacher unit's appeal for a wage settlement.

Judge John M. Gradwohl, in writing the opinion for the court, said a number of state laws had a bearing on the Hastings decision. Included were a number dealing specifically with teacher contracts.

He said in view of those laws, a contract once signed is binding, but he said the industrial court could later order changes be made in terms.

'Subject To Court'

"Giving an interpretation of all of these statutes, we conclude that the individual teaching contracts are binding and enforceable obligations, but that their terms and conditions may be subject to an order of this court," Gradwohl said.

The contracts, he said, are binding in the sense that the court, in upholding the board's final offer, said it was found the salary schedule was "comparable to the prevalent wage rates paid for other comparable teachers by other comparable school districts."

However, he noted, "none of the teachers involved in this matter has requested a release" from his performance contract.

Gradwohl also said that the court, in ordering the matter to trial, has not made a decision on the wage issue. He said a decision was made only on whether the case should have been dismissed.

Ed Board Backed

In another decision, the industrial court ruled in favor of the Milford School Board in a dispute over a salary schedule for next year.

Prior to the impasse and later appeal by the Milford Education Association to the court for a settlement, the board had offered a base salary of $8,500 a year with 5% increases for various levels of experience and training.

The teachers, however, sought a $100 increase over the board's offer, plus further hikes in the experience and training schedule.

'Comparable'

The court also dismissed a suit filed by the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, Omaha City Civilian Employees Local 250, against the City of Omaha.

The employee unit had requested the court to order the city to investigate the possibility of providing vehicles for members of the permits and inspection division staff, and during the investigation the city should increase the compensation paid to employees using their own cars.

However, the court noted the union had signed an agreement with the city which covered the matter prior to the filing of the suit.

"By filing this suit . . . the union is, in effect, asking this court to go beyond the considered and negotiated agreement entered into," the court said.

Boyles Said OK In Heart Attack

Lancaster District Judge Bartlett Boyles was listed in "satisfactory" condition in the intensive care unit at Bryan Memorial Hospital Thursday after suffering an apparent heart attack Wednesday night.

According to Judge Boyles' court bailiff, the former Lincoln mayor was stricken about 10:30 p.m. after putting his car in the garage at his home at 3490 Woods Ave.

Coed Is Bride At Thursday Wedding

At 7:30 o'clock on Friday evening, July 15, the marriage of Miss Lucinda Jo Pedersen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Pedersen of Hardy, to Gregory Gene Jensen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Jensen of Nora, was solemnized at the St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Hardy. The lines of the service were read by the Rev. Kent Morse.

The attendants were Miss Florence Pedersen, the maid of honor, and bridesmaids Miss Debbie Jensen of Nelson and Miss Debbie Pedersen.

David Higgins of Valentine served Mr. Jensen as best man.

The bride chose a gown of silk sateen in the candlelight shade for her wedding. Above the long, slightly gathered skirt which was completed with a cotillion-length train, the fitted Empire bodice was designed with a high, jewel-banded neckline, and the jewel motif was repeated to patterns the bodice front and to cuff the Bishop sleeves. A Juliet cap, encrusted with jewels, held in place her tiered, elbow-length veil, and she carried a bouquet of garden flowers.

Mr. Jensen and his bride will reside in Lincoln.

The bride is a senior at the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Alpha Lambda Delta honorary. Mr. Jensen was graduated from the University of Nebraska in January and will enter the University of Nebraska College of Law in the fall. His fraternity is Alpha Tau Omega.

Post-Nuptial Courtesy

The marriage of Miss Joanne Wilkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Wilkins of Lincoln, to George Wahbeh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Wahbeh of Atchison, Kan., took place on Tuesday, June 15, in San Diego, Calif.

Mr. Wahbeh and his bride will reside in Denver, Colo., where he attends Denver University.

The bride was graduated from the University of Nebraska where she majored in interior design and where she is affiliated with Delta Zeta sorority.

Mr. and Mrs. Wahbeh will be entertained at a reception in their honor on Sunday afternoon, July 18. The 4:30 o'clock courtesy will be held at the home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burmeister.

Bridge: quiz day

B. Jay Becker

You are South, both sides vulnerable. The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	Dble	Pass	?

What would you bid now with each of the following five hands?

1. ♠A872 ♥A986 ♦K983 ♣6
2. ♠Q8 ♥Q5 ♦AJ943 ♣QJ82
3. ♠73 ♥862 ♦KJ5 ♣J9642
4. ♠92 ♥AJ32 ♦K9853 ♣74
5. ♠J6 ♥AQJ7652 ♦872 ♣9

1. Two clubs. This unaccustomed response in the opponents' suit is easily the best bid under the circumstances. To begin with, you assume your side has a game after partner doubles, for the double indicates not only the values for an opening bid but also support for at least two suits outside of clubs. Certainly, if partner had opened the bidding with a spade or a heart, you would not let go before game was reached, and it is reasonable to react the same way when partner doubles a club.

Obviously, it would be misleading to respond one heart or one spade because that is what you would do with, say, J843 J843 72 965. You can't bid a good hand and a bad hand the same way and expect partner to know which one you have.

You could of course show substantial values by responding two hearts or two spades, but partner would surely expect a better suit for the jump response. The best way to express strength — but uncertainty about trumps — is by a cuebid. This forces partner to choose the suit.

2. Two notrump. The prospect for game in notrump is excellent and the best way of showing it is by a jump response in notrump. The hand is much too good for a one diamond response, since you have 12 points and might have had none. It is also best to avoid a two diamond response, because there is a far better chance for a nine-trick game than an eleven-trick game.

3. One diamond. It is rare to respond with a three-card suit, but that is all you can do here. One notrump would represent a better hand than you have.

4. One heart. This is preferable to one diamond, even though the diamonds are longer. The reason is that there is a better chance for game in hearts (ten tricks) than in diamonds (eleven tricks). Game is just around the corner if partner has more than a minimum double.

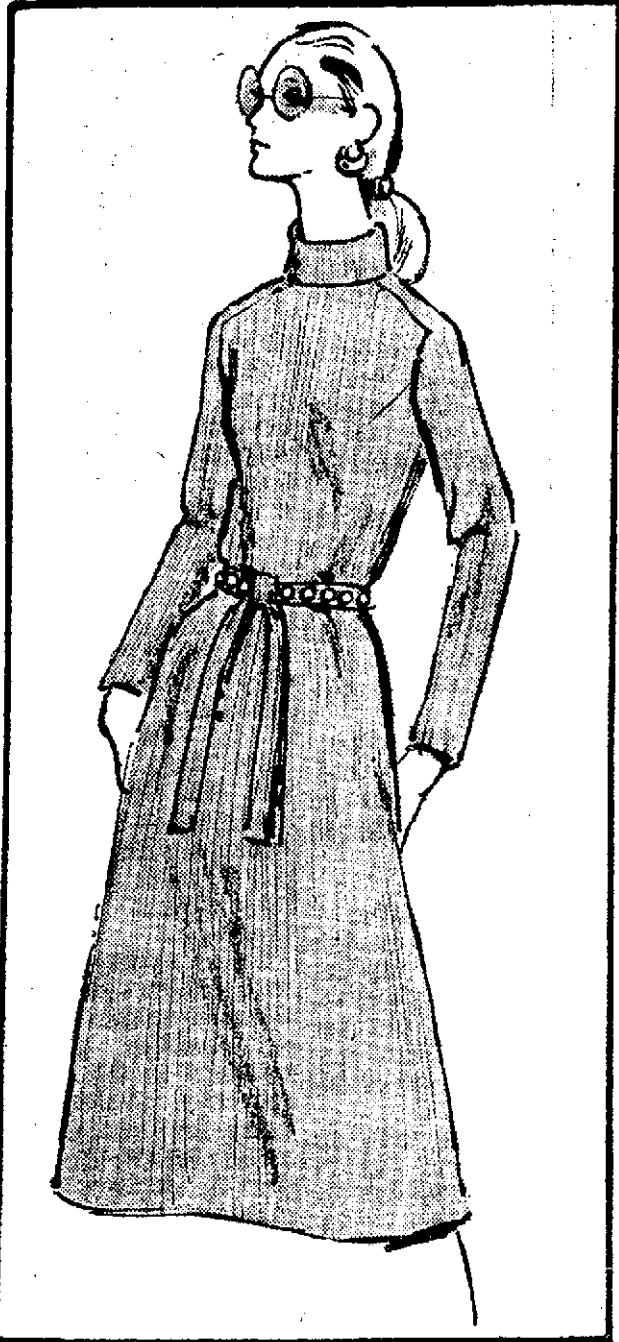

5. Four hearts. With seven tricks facing a takeout double, there should be no doubt about what is likely to be the best contract. You therefore leap directly to game.

an interesting tour of the shops

We looked at our tour of the shops from a different angle this week and saw that there are stores we had forgotten literally lining the city streets — therefore we chose to do our shopping by the block.

Today we will give you the lowdown on what we found in the shops between N and O on Ninth Street.

AT CROWL'S KITCHEN

Everything needed for refinishing or building a kitchen may be found in this one store. Some of the cabinets are custom-made; some are pre-finished — depending on your price range. There are many, many different wood finishes to choose from, including antique, cherrywood and American walnut. Some of the cabinets have display rails, lid dividers, spice racks, and lazy susans.

AT FLOORCRAFTERS, INC.

All types of floor coverings shopping convenience. Floorcrafters are distributors for Armstrong, Gaf, Azrock and Craftone. They have carpeting ranging from plush shag to short nylon; indoor to outdoor; carpet tiles, and do-it-yourself shag carpeting. We also found ceramic tile for the bath, floor or counter; vinyl linoleum, and even vinyl flooring with Bugs Bunny and other Warner Bros. characters. By the way, you also can have window shades custom-made at Floorcrafters.

AT SOUND CITY

"Lincoln's different music store" carries imported musical items and specialty musical gifts, such as thumb pianos, snake charmers, — guaranteed to charm the snakiest snake — and wall ornaments from Taiwan — and that's in addition to all types of musical instruments, especially guitars, drums and amplifiers for rock bands.

Sound City even has a recording studio and offers guitar and drum instruction. They also have strobe lights, microphones, posters, and something really unusual — table drums from India.

AT GENERAL FIRE

We discovered the purse-size Falcon 911 Horn—which in layman terms is a safety warning device that can help defer accidents of all types. The three ounce device blasts louder than an automobile horn and can be heard over traffic and construction. We also heard that the compact warning horn has been heard by thousands at University of Nebraska football games when horn owners want to sound off their approval and disapproval of certain plays!

General Fire also carries many lifesaving goods.

AT BARTH'S DRUG AND HARDWARE

This unique store combines items found in a drug store with light hardware for quite a variety of wares. July's heat has stepped up lawn problems and we found a complete lawn care center with sprinklers, lawn mowers, lawn spreaders, and Ortho lawn care products. Nut grass that seems to be cropping up all over this summer can be beaten with specific sprays and spray equipment, all available at Barth's. In case the handyman needs some saw work, we noticed some chain saws that can handle the job.

The drug section extends to include pharmaceutical products for farm animals and there is a horse care center which carries riding equipment and informative booklets.

AT THE MUSIC MART

We peeked in the window of the soon-to-be-opening business that will deal in organs.

AT LEONARD'SHOUSE OF COLOR

At House of Color, you may want to begin by browsing through the rooms of unfinished furniture that can beautifully fill your home or apartment. It is available in styles of every period, from French Provincial to traditional to Spanish-Mediterranean to Modern.

Once you have chosen your furniture, you will want to decide the kind of finish for it. Leonard's has an unlimited color selection in "Plain-To-Pretty" antiquing kits.

Luncheon Planned

The members of Beta Conclave of Kappa Kappa Iota will gather at the Malcolm home of Mrs. Mannie Mason for a 12:30 o'clock luncheon on Friday afternoon, July 16.

Abby: mother needs professional help

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A year ago my father passed away. He was 69 years old. Since then my mother has been carrying on until she has me half crazy. You would think she was the only woman ever to lose a husband. She had a good life with him and she should be grateful she had him that long.

However, my real problem is that I live only a block away from her. I run over every day, but it's not enough for her. She spends every free hour at my house, saying she has nothing to live for and she is going to take an "overdose."

She keeps saying she can't live alone. (I think she wants to move in with me and that would be the end of me.) She is not disabled in any way, but she complains and whines constantly until I am about to have a nervous breakdown.

I have no privacy. She has brothers and sisters, but she is here all the time, or else she's at home calling me to come over. She won't even turn on her TV. She'd rather sit and feel sorry for herself.

She criticizes everything and tears everyone to pieces. My husband is thinking of asking for a transfer so we can move away. What else can we do?

SMOTHERED

DEAR SMOTHERED: You can take your mother to a doctor. Your mother needs professional help in handling her grief. And YOU need some help in learning how to handle your mother.

DEAR ABBY: A 19-year-old man (if you can call him that) was recently found guilty of beating two of his girl friend's children, and he was given the maximum penalty of 180 days in the workhouse. The children, ages 4 and 5, were taken to the hospital and treated for numerous lacerations and welts across their backs, which the state claimed were inflicted by a knotted electric cord.

The mother of these battered tots was 17 years old, and she had three other children — one per year beginning when she was 12 years old!

Now if this isn't a case in favor of planned parenthood, I don't know what is.

APPALLED IN ST. PAUL
DEAR APPALLED:
Amen!

DEAR ABBY: This problem has been on my mind for several years and I hope you can help me.

Many years ago I obtained a divorce from a man, but before the divorce was final, I married again. We both knew my divorce was not final at the time, but we had to get married, so we did. I have had my final papers for years but we've never renewed our vows. My question is, how legal is this marriage?

TROUBLED

DEAR TROUBLED: Some states recognize common law marriages, but I wouldn't bet on that as a solution to this problem. I advise you to quietly get married without broadly proclaiming the fact that your first marriage was invalid. But before you do anything, I advise you to see a competent lawyer.

CONFIDENTIAL TO
"WHERE DID WE GO WRONG" IN WHEELING W. VA.: From your letter I would say you did your best. Some parents "train a child in the way he should go," and out of sheer rebellion, the child deliberately departs from it.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Footlights & Canvas

Good morning:

Community support is an essential ingredient in the growth of performing art endeavors in Lincoln. From a bird's eye view, Lincoln is offering approximately 14 performing arts productions this summer alone. This figure can easily put to rest those who feel 'there is nothing going on'.

We cannot, however, sustain the arts in Lincoln if we sit at home complaining of the lack of activity here. The attendance at some of the productions leaves more than a little to be desired, while others receive overwhelming community support.

As a case in point, we would like to discuss the recent presentation of "Fiddler On The Roof" at the Pinewood Bowl. The attendance was staggering, with a rounded figure of 13,500 for the four-night stand.

Sponsored by the Lincoln Singfest Committee, free-will offerings this year totaled $4,386 from the 13,500 people in attendance. These monies are used for production costs, including royalties, salaries for the director and musical director, costume rentals, costume cleaning, make-up, rental of music scores, lumber and paint for the scenery and rain insurance.

The cast, backstage crew, costumer and the many others who dedicate a great deal of their time and energies are involved on a volunteer basis. According to production chairman, Art Kuhr, expenses this year totaled $2,300. The remaining funds will be utilized to improve the physical state of Pinewood Bowl.

We do not feel that every community or amateur production deserves blanket praise, although the effort and dedication is worthy of recognition. However, in the case of "Fiddler," the top quality presentation that was offered the public on a free admission basis deserves not only praise, but pride in the talent of members of our community as well.

While each man is entitled to his own personal opinion, we feel that some of the recent criticism is unmerited. The old adage, that one hand feeds the other, may well be heeded. To cast only criticism defeats a purpose — the implementation and sustenance of a growing artistic circle in our city. The success or failure of a community enterprise such as this survives on community support. We hope that those who have found time to find fault will also find time to work towards developing a broadened future.

Our applause to the cast and crew of "Fiddler" for a job well done, and to the community at large for its fine support. Please join us.

CLASSIC OPERA . . . The University of Nebraska School of Music summer sessions will produce "Così Fan Tutte" an opera comedy by Mozart as this year's annual summer opera. Performance dates are Wednesday through Saturday evenings, July 28-31, at the Kimball Recital Hall. ## Footlights & Canvas

Good morning:

Community support is an essential ingredient in the growth of performing art endeavors in Lincoln. From a bird's eye view, Lincoln is offering approximately 14 performing arts productions this summer alone. This figure can easily put to rest those who feel 'there is nothing going on'.

We cannot, however, sustain the arts in Lincoln if we sit at home complaining of the lack of activity here. The attendance at some of the productions leaves more than a little to be desired, while others receive overwhelming community support.

As a case in point, we would like to discuss the recent presentation of "Fiddler On The Roof" at the Pinewood Bowl. The attendance was staggering, with a rounded figure of 13,500 for the four-night stand.

Sponsored by the Lincoln Singfest Committee, free-will offerings this year totaled $4,386 from the 13,500 people in attendance. These monies are used for production costs, including royalties, salaries for the director and musical director, costume rentals, costume cleaning, make-up, rental of music scores, lumber and paint for the scenery and rain insurance.

The cast, backstage crew, costumer and the many others who dedicate a great deal of their time and energies are involved on a volunteer basis. According to production chairman, Art Kuhr, expenses this year totaled $2,300. The remaining funds will be utilized to improve the physical state of Pinewood Bowl.

We do not feel that every community or amateur production deserves blanket praise, although the effort and dedication is worthy of recognition. However, in the case of "Fiddler," the top quality presentation that was offered the public on a free admission basis deserves not only praise, but pride in the talent of members of our community as well.

While each man is entitled to his own personal opinion, we feel that some of the recent criticism is unwarranted. The old adage, that one hand feeds the other, may well be heeded. To cast only criticism defeats a purpose — the implementation and sustenance of a growing artistic circle in our city. The success or failure of a community enterprise such as this survives on community support. We hope that those who have found time to find fault will also find time to work towards developing a broadened future.

Our applause to the cast and crew of "Fiddler" for a job well done, and to the community at large for its fine support. Please join us.

Abby: mother needs professional help

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A year ago my father passed away. He was 69 years old. Since then my mother has been carrying on until she has me half crazy. You would think she was the only woman ever to lose a husband. She had a good life with him and she should be grateful she had him that long.

However, my real problem is that I live only a block away from her. I run over every day, but it's not enough for her. She spends every free hour at my house, saying she has nothing to live for and she is going to take an "overdose."

She keeps saying she can't live alone. (I think she wants to move in with me and that would be the end of me.) She is not disabled in any way, but she complains and whines constantly until I am about to have a nervous breakdown.

I have no privacy. She has brothers and sisters, but she is here all the time, or else she's at home calling me to come over. She won't even turn on her TV. She'd rather sit and feel sorry for herself.

She criticizes everything and tears everyone to pieces. My husband is thinking of asking for a transfer so we can move away. What else can we do?

SMOTHERED

DEAR SMOTHERED: You can take your mother to a doctor. Your mother needs professional help in handling her grief. And YOU need some help in learning how to handle your mother.

DEAR ABBY: A 19-year-old man (if you can call him that) was recently found guilty of beating two of his girl friend's children, and he was given the maximum penalty of 180 days in the workhouse. The children, ages 4 and 5, were taken to the hospital and treated for numerous lacerations and welts across their backs, which the state claimed were inflicted by a knotted electric cord.

The mother of these battered tots was 17 years old, and she had three other children — one per year beginning when she was 12 years old!

Now if this isn't a case in favor of planned parenthood, I don't know what is.

APPALLED IN ST. PAUL
DEAR APPALLED:
Amen!

DEAR ABBY: This problem has been on my mind for several years and I hope you can help me.

Many years ago I obtained a divorce from a man, but before the divorce was final, I married again. We both knew my divorce was not final at the time, but we had to get married, so we did. I have had my final papers for years but we've never renewed our vows. My question is, how legal is this marriage?

TROUBLED

DEAR TROUBLED: Some states recognize common law marriages, but I wouldn't bet on that as a solution to this problem. I advise you to quietly get married without broadly proclaiming the fact that your first marriage was invalid. But before you do anything, I advise you to see a competent lawyer.

CONFIDENTIAL TO
"WHERE DID WE GO WRONG" IN WHEELING W. VA.: From your letter I would say you did your best. Some parents "train up a child in the way he should go," and out of sheer rebellion, the child deliberately departs from it.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

NU Management Study Urges Double Goal

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

Recommendations stemming from a University of Nebraska management study aim at both strengthening the university as a system and at maintaining the autonomy of the three campuses.

The two-fold objective emerged as recommendations were explained by a representative of the consulting firm which did the study and by the chairman of the advisory committee which worked with the consultants.

A preliminary report on the study, was accepted for study by the Board of Regents with the understanding action will come at the August meeting. By the end of the month, the consultants promised to have a final copy of the report in the board's hands.

Separating Activities

Central to a host of recommendations by Cresap, McCormick & Paget, a New York-based firm, was the separation of university system-level activities and activities dealing solely with the NU-Lincoln campus, mother campus for the system.

Recommendations included separation of duties of offices now working with both system and Lincoln operations. And the firm even suggested moving the office of the chancellor (which Cresap would change to president) off of the Lincoln campus. The advisory committee said it should go to a non-campus location in Lincoln or Lancaster County.

Members of the advisory committee, headed by Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. President Thomas Nurnberger, met with the consultants as they drafted the report and then offered a report of their own with the committee's reactions.

One far-reaching recommendation which Nurnberger said his committee endorsed only after long and highly emotional arguments was one to do away with the system-level "graduate council" and substitute a system under which graduate programs would be the direct responsibility of the regents.

'Gravest Questions'

Each campus would handle administration of its own graduate programs under the plan, which Chancellor D. B. Varner admitted raised the "gravest questions" in his own mind.

Ronald L. King of Chicago, a member of the four-man team which conducted the study, said his firm reviewed documents important to the university and to the merger of NU and the former Omaha school. He also said about 100 persons were interviewed, including students and faculty members.

The management study, billed as "phase one" of a study of the system, covered all aspects of the organizational structure from the level of regents down through college deans.

What follows are highlights of the study, with the committee's own comments, as reported to the board by Nurnberger:

—The committee agreed with consultant recommendations for an update and restatement of board responsibilities, policies and bylaws.

—The committee adopted the concept and titles in the recommendation on senior administrators, but would give the chancellors two top aides and the three campus administrators equal status in system matters.

Under the proposal, the chief executive officer would become the president, and campus presidents would become three "chancellor and vice presidents" of the university.

Other officers of the system would include vice presidents for academic matters and administration, a director of university relations and a corporation secretary-legal counsel.

—Strongly endorsed was an internal audit system to be sure regents policies were being carried out.

—Accepted by the committee was a suggestion for formalized faculty and student advisory councils to the board.

The committee also endorsed proposals for orientation of new regents, staggered regents' terms, a separate budget for the central staff, a decentralization of the institutional research staff, part-time legal counsel on —The committee agreed with consultant recommendations for an update and restatement of board responsibilities, policies and bylaws.

—The committee adopted the concept and titles in the recommendation on senior administrators, but would give the chancellors two top aides and the three campus administrators equal status in system matters.

Under the proposal, the chief executive officer would become the president, and campus presidents would become three "chancellor and vice presidents" of the university.

Other officers of the system would include vice presidents for academic matters and administration, a director of university relations and a corporation secretary-legal counsel.

—Strongly endorsed was an internal audit system to be sure regents policies were being carried out.

—Accepted by the committee was a suggestion for formalized faculty and student advisory councils to the board.

The committee also endorsed proposals for orientation of new regents, staggered regents' terms, a separate budget for the central staff, a decentralization of the institutional research staff, part-time legal counsel on each campus and retention of the status of the College of Agriculture.

St. Paul (AP) — A new weekly newspaper, Howard County's second, will begin publication in mid-August, the Rev. and Mrs. John Craig of St. Paul have announced.

The United Methodist minister, his wife, and their son, Paul A. Mison, under the name of Craig-Matson Enterprises, have purchased the Junglaus Building here and plan the first publication of the new Mid-State News on Aug. 17.

The Howard County Herald, established April 1, 1899, and owned and published by the M. Lorkosky family for half a century, was purchased in January by Ron Furse of the Aurora News Register and was consolidated with the Register on March 1.

The staff of the Herald has now been employed by Craig-Matson to write for the Mid-State News. The staff includes Olga and Irene Lorkosky.

Part of the country club set?

Yes, but not in the usual sense. These people do golf; the course is available whenever they want it. They do get together with other "club people" for an occasional bridge game at the lodge, but that is where the similarity between them and most country club members end.

These people don't pay $1000.00 initiation dues and they don't pay monthly membership dues year after year. Their club knows no "season". Water sports are not limited to sun bathing at a pool.

For this couple, country club living means a great deal more.

They are part of a recreational community. A community that bustles with activity year 'round. They water ski, hike, fish, canoe, sail, camp out, swim, go snow mobiling, ice skate . . . and all as part of their private membership.

This exciting recreational living doesn't cost them a small fortune either. In fact it costs far less than the average country club membership . . . and their money is going toward the ownership of choice lake-living property.

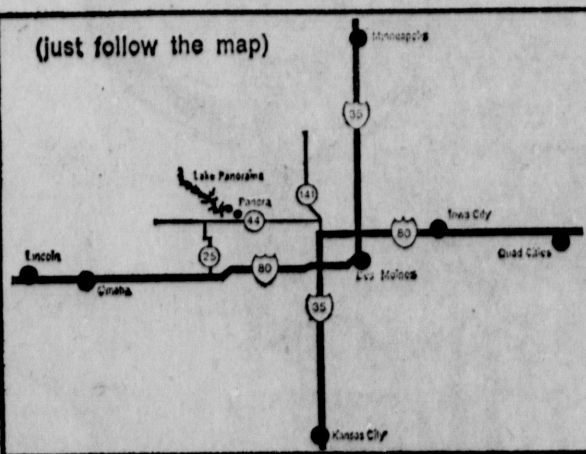

They are part of the Mid-West's largest professionally planned private lake and recreational community . . . Lake Panorama. Care to join them?

Take the family . . . drive out to the Lake . . . turn north on Highway 4 at the east edge of Panora, Iowa. Drive two miles north to the entrance of Lake Panorama. A representative will arrange a private tour of the Lake and tell you about the convenient financing . . . how owning a vacation and recreational home site at Lake Panorama can become a reality. Our office is open every day 9 AM till dark.

Wide Variety Of Goals Suggested For Nebraska

By WAYNE KREUSCHER
Star Staff Writer

A wide variety of tentative goals was suggested Thursday by the approximately 100 persons who attended the first "Goals for Nebraska" meeting.

The statewide goals proposed by city, county, press and broadcast representatives at the meeting concerned such subjects as economic development, ecology, regional consolidation and tourism.

These tentative goals emerged from roundtable discussions at the meeting. A steering committee, which was selected by the group, will use Thursday's proposals as guidelines for the study of future goals.

The meeting was called by the Nebraska League of Municipalities and the Association of County Officials.

One roundtable list of goals said the No. 1 "need in the state is mutual trust among communities."

Another pointed out that Nebraska should try to be not only No. 1 in football, "but also be No. 1 in agriculture for the nation."

A number of goal lists suggested that some municipal and county governments and law enforcement agencies along with school districts should be merged.

committee included city and county officials, as well as representatives of the press and broadcast media, and several members of the governor's staff.

Named To Panel

Named to the committee were Lancaster County Commissioner Kenneth Bourne and G. L. Dolson of Morrill County, representing counties; Lincoln Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf and Aurora Mayor Hans Jensen, cities; John Edgecombe of Geneva and Bob Bogue of Oakland, press; Roger Larson of Lincoln and Bob Schnuelle of Grand Island, broadcasting; State Administrative Services Director Gus Lieske and Community Affairs Director Roger Massey, ex-officio state representatives; and Kathy Weber of Lincoln, State League of Women Voters.

"People Don't Know"

"We've got people ripping through the state on the Interstate, who just don't know what's available," one tourism promotion goal said.

And a goal that called for more promotion of the state stated that Nebraska needs "to pursue a program to advise the employers and the Johnnie Carsons and Dick Cavetts that Nebraska is not a sanctuary for idiots."

Other goals included "keep people out of urban areas," "coordinate planning," "stop small towns from deteriorating" and "water storage facilities need to be built in middle and southwestern Nebraska whereby supplemental water supplies can be used for irrigation."

Those selected to the steering

Representatives also are expected to be named from agriculture, education, commerce and industry.

Earlier in the day, Omaha Mayor Eugene Leahy, Schwartzkopf, Bourne, Lieske, Stanley Matzke Jr., state economic development director, John L. Sullivan, administrative assistant to the governor, and others spoke to the group.

Workmen Flee Fleas

Baltimore (AP) — Fleas have forced workmen out of Pimlico Elementary School.

Workmen have stopped renovation of the school because the bites were getting to be too much.

"It started out as a joke," said Kenneth Kessler, an on-site representative of the city building department, "but it isn't any more. They've even invaded my (construction) trailer."

A flea invasion in the crawlways and hallways of the three-story elementary school halted the $2.5-million job.

August Draft Lottery Set

Washington (AP) — The Selective Service system is planning to go ahead with the 1972 draft lottery early next month regardless of whether Congress acts by then to extend the draft law officials said Thursday.

The tentative date for the lottery is reportedly Aug. 5 although Selective Service officials said they could not confirm that. However, they said it will be "early August; that's a certainty."

The lottery will determine the order of call for 19-year-olds and others eligible for the draft next year. It had been scheduled for earlier this month but was postponed when House-Senate conferees deadlocked over legislation to extend the draft two years.

In the meantime, the Congressional delay has forced Selective Service to hold off inducting 16,000 men requested by the Defense Department for July and August.

Pentagon officials say the Army can meet its manpower needs through the summer without the draft but if a new law isn't enacted by fall there will be problems.

Housing Is Topic

The public is invited to a housing workshop to be held 9:15 to 11:30 a.m. Thursday at the Malone Center under the direction of the Lincoln League of Women Voters. Representatives from Lincoln housing organizations and community agencies will be on the panel.

Senate Nixes Lower Farm Ceiling

Washington (UPI) — Rejecting arguments that big payments to large landowners had created a "grotesque, lopsided monster," the Senate refused Thursday to limit to $20,000 the annual farm subsidies any farmer could collect on each of his cotton, wheat and feed grain crops.

The 57-28 vote beating down the $20,000 per crop limitation proposed by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., left in effect a $55,000-per-year, per-crop ceiling.

But the House, which had approved the $20,000 ceiling earlier, was sure to try to impose that figure when it considers a $13.6 appropriations bill for the Agriculture Department.

After beating Bayh's amendment and adopting three that would sharply boost spending on food programs for the poor, the Senate approved the full measure 78 to 2 and sent it back to the House.

The amendments to increase spending on the poor would raise the school breakfast program from $15 billion to $25 billion, up spending for school lunch facilities from $16.1 billion to $33 billion and raise spending on the food stamp program from $2 billion to $2.5 billion.

Bayh, who said he was a farmer himself, said that before the $55,000 per crop limit was imposed, seven big farms received more than $1 million a year in subsidy payments in 1969, and 54 others collected between $250,000 and $500,000.

The $55,000 ceiling had not worked, he said, because many big landowners simply split up their holdings and collected the limit on each new farm unit.

Rejection of Bayh's amendment was regarded as a victory for the Nixon administration which worked hard to defeat it.

Bayh said the lower ceiling would affect only 11,000 subsidy recipients of the 2.5 million who receive payments for staying within their planting allotments and leaving some land idle.

Bayh called the present ceiling "scandalous." Sen. Thomas S. McIntyre, D-N.H., called it a "grotesque, lopsided monster, gobbling up billions of dollars a year."

An amendment by Utah's Sen. Frank E. Moss to halt all support payment on tobacco was defeated, 71 to 10.

Wide Variety Of Goals Suggested For Nebraska

By WAYNE KREUSCHER
Star Staff Writer

A wide variety of tentative goals was suggested Thursday by the approximately 100 persons who attended the first "Goals for Nebraska" meeting.

The statewide goals proposed by city, county, press and broadcast representatives at the meeting concerned such subjects as economic development, ecology, regional consolidation and tourism.

These tentative goals emerged from roundtable discussions at the meeting. A steering committee, which was selected by the group, will use Thursday's proposals as guidelines for the study of future goals.

The meeting was called by the Nebraska League of Municipalities and the Association of County Officials.

One roundtable list of goals said the No. 1 "need in the state is mutual trust among communities."

Ex-NU Griddier Takes Over

The Los Angeles Times gives this description of what was happening at the Monte Vista School in Santa Ana, Calif., a school with a mixture of lower and lower middle class whites, Mexican-Americans and blacks on its grounds and in its hallways, during the 1969-70 school year.

"... 500 windows at the school were broken and rebroken, community lines of communication were nonexistent, teachers were frightened and in some cases transferring, discipline was a constant problem and children were continually working things out with their fists."

Then a former Nebraska football player arrived on the scene. White, who carried a football for Husker teams a decade ago, arrived, carrying his philosophy for getting along with problem youngsters.

"If you reject a child as he is, you will alienate him. If you accept him as he is, like him as he is, acknowledge him as a person, he can learn from you."

"You just can't work with someone who thinks you don't approve of him. By disapproving of the way a student is when he comes to you, you immediately turn him off. You alienate him completely."

"When you do that you may as well give up hope of teaching him. He'll do nothing, say nothing and contribute nothing because he'd rather be quiet than wrong."

With that philosophy, the black former Husker griddier has, according to the Times, "changed Monte Vista School from what could have been termed a war zone into a community learning experience in little more than a year."

How He Sees 'Em

Put-down comedian Don Rickles gives these candid views of today's pro golf stars in the August issue of Golf Digest:

JACK NICKLAUS—"They ought to put a cord on his backside and make him a cannon. His idea of fun is to sit home on Saturday night with a glass of hot cocoa singing Ohio State fight songs."

TOM SHAW—"He is a wonderful kid, he really is. With his cute blond hair and trick-or-treat shirts, he belongs with Spanky and the rest in 'Our Gang' comedies."

BOB GOALBY—"He must be fantastic, but what type of work is he in?"

ARNOLD PALMER—"He is fantastic if you like to see a guy try on slacks all day. I call him Harry Hitch. I can't figure out whether he's looking for his belt or has trouble finding pants that fit. He looks in a mirror and says, 'I'm an idol! I'm an idol!'"

BRUCE CRAMPTON—"I just found out who he is. For years I was using him on turkey."

DAVE HILL—"Hill is a lovely guy, but whenever he makes the cut he goes into shock. He stands on the tee and hopes his name is called so he can go play with the grown-ups."

Use What You Have

Golfer Tommy Bolt is perhaps as well known for his club throwing as for his club swinging.

During a round, Bolt hit a perfect drive down the middle on a long par-5 hole, so the story goes, and when he arrived at the ball, his caddy handed him a 3-iron.

"I can't get home with this," Tommy growled at the caddy, who had a quick explanation: "I know that, Mr. Bolt, but that's the only club we've got left."

Then there's the story of the golfer, who after hitting two balls out of bounds had to borrow a ball from his partner. That one also went OB and he borrowed another. Same result.

As he turned to ask for another ball, the partner exclaimed, "Look, those golf balls are expensive."

"Well, if you can't afford the game, you ought to give it up," the errant swinger retorted.

As a nation, we are dedicated to keeping physically fit, and parking as close to the stadium as possible.

—DOWNS PADRES IN 17 INNINGS— Pittsburgh Stretches Winning Excursion

By Associated Press

The Pittsburgh Pirates made it seven in a row by edging San Diego, 4-3, in a dramatic 17-inning struggle Thursday night as the major league baseball season resumed after the All-Star break.

A home run by Roberto Clemente won it for the Pirates after they twice tied the game in extra innings.

Willie Stargell, who had fanned four times earlier, walloped his 31st homer in the 13th to tie the score at 2-2. In the 16th, after the Padres again had gone ahead 3-2, a home run by Richie Hebner once more deadlocked the score. Earlier Los Angeles had blanked Atlanta, 6-0 and cut San Francisco's lead in the national League West to five games. The Giants lost to Cincinnati, 2-1.

Tony Perez's home run with two out in the ninth gave the Reds their victory over San Francisco. Claude Osteen of the Dodgers shut out the Braves on six hits and was backed with homers by Richie Allen, Willie Davis and Jim Lefebvre.

Rico Petrocelli's dramatic three-run homer with two out in the last of the 13th gave Boston a 3-0 victory over Minnesota.

Cleon Jones' two-run homer in the seventh put the Mets ahead, 5-4 and the New Yorkers went on to whip Houston, 9-4, and snap a six-game losing streak.

St. Louis and Montreal split a two-night doubleheader. The Cardinals took the opener, 7-3, and the Expos the second game, 6-4.

In other games the Chicago Cubs rallied to defeat Philadelphia, 7-6, Kansas City shaded Cleveland, 1-0, Washington tripped the Chicago White Sox, 8-3 and Milwaukee edged the New York Yankees, 1-0, on Dave May's ninth inning homer.

Sam McDowell pitched a two-hitter for the Indians, but one was Lou Piniella's RBI single with two out in the sixth that accounted for Kansas City's lone run. The Cubs came up with six runs in the fourth to beat the Phillies. The Senators also exploded for six runs in the sixth to down the White Sox.

Baltimore's Pat Dobson won his eighth straight game, driving in the deciding run with a seventh-inning single, as the Orioles edged the California Angels, 4-3, in a late West coast game.

Choice Honey managed to hold off bids by French Intrigue and Satans Flash to win the featured seventh at the Fairgrounds Thursday and keep leading jockey Fred Ecoffey from being shut out of the winner's circle.

The 3-year-old dark brown filly by Draft Choice out of Duc's Honey stayed back in the pack throughout the first half of the mile affair before Ecoffey moved her up on the inside to take the lead on the turn for home.

The 4-5 favorite then stayed in front despite threats by longshot French Intrigue and Satans Flash to win by half a length in 1:40 3-5... well off the track record of 1:38 1-5 set by Meadland last year.

French Intrigue and Satans Flash finished in the first dead heat of Lincoln's racing season with French Intrigue returning $6.00 and $4.80 while Satans Flash brought home $2.60 and $3.20.

Ecoffey, who rode five winners Wednesday, couldn't put it together Thursday until Choice Honey answered the Pine Ridge, S.D. rider's urgings.

At first, however, it looked like Ecoffey was doomed to remain an also-ran for the whole day as Air Ruler broke on top followed by Whoa Rube.

The two leaders then waged a battle for the lead while Choice Honey remained contented to stay with the pack.

Then at the three-quarters mark, French Intrigue slipped up to challenge Air Ruler and Whoa Rube on the outside and Ecoffey brought Choice Honey up on the inside to eventually take the lead.

Choice Honey, carrying 115 pounds, returned $3.80, $2.80 and $2.40 in her fourth win out of ten starts. The filly owned by Mary Ann Norvel of Huntley, Ill. and trained by R. E. Lee, leading trainer at the Fairgrounds, also has finished in the money four other times with one place and three shows.

The $900 winner's share of the $1,500 purse boosted Choice Honey's winnings for the 1971 season to $9,044.

In the sixth race, an allowance chase over six furlongs, Raven's Nova led wire-to-wire to return $13.60 $5.40 and $3.20 to backers while adding the winner's $1,200 share of the $2,000 purse to boost her 1971 earnings to $2,447 with two wins and a show finish out of seven starts.

Today's feature race will pit three top-weighted horses, War Issue, B.J.'s Pal and Secret King against a field of six over six furlongs for 4-year-olds and up.

Ryun Quits His Tour In Europe Bunnie Moves To Semifinals

... IN STATE LADIES GOLF TOURNEY

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Oslo, Norway (AP) — Jim Ryun Thursday night quit his European tour after a rather poor showing in an international track meet at Bislet here Wednesday night.

"I want to go home," Ryun said laconically after having finished third on the 800 meter race.

Ryun, who had just started his scheduled four-week tour, went home with his wife, Anne, and their daughter, Heather. For the moment he is uncertain whether his disappointing showing means an end to his career.

For seven years he has suffered from allergy, and he blamed his latest performance on this ailment.

The Topeka Kan. State Journal where Ryun once worked as a photographer quoted him as saying he was "not interested in more defeats in Europe."

Ryun also has announced plans to move from Eugene — where a high pollen count had given him a prolonged case of hay fever in May and June — to Santa Barbara, Calif.

Ryun said Thursday he had dismissed personal speculation he might give up his comeback plans. Now, he said, he wants to move to Santa Barbara "and begin training again in complete quietness."

Ryun quit running in June 1969 after a disappointing outdoor season, following his 1968 Olympic defeat at the hands of Kip Keino of Kenya at Mexico City.

He didn't run again until last spring, when he began a comeback which had included some highly encouraging sub-four minute miles. Then he ran into the hay fever attacks and his showings slumped.

Plaque To Gerner

Gerald Gerner, who has coached in the Salvation Army Little Fry basketball program for the past three years, will be presented a plaque for his service by the Lincoln Sunrise Optimist Club.

The new comer is 21-year-old Bunnie Phillips of Norfolk, who will meet Christie today while Mrs. Marchese and Mrs. Hyland battle for the other spot in Saturday's 36-hole championship match.

Three of the four already have their names engraved on the traveling trophy — Jean Hyland of Lincoln, a four-time winner, Christie Schwartzkopf of Lincoln the winner the past two years and Betty Marchese of Omaha a former champion.

"Actually, 74 was about as bad as I could have scored," the 31-year-old Mexican-American said.

"I don't think I'm out of it yet. I shoot a four or five under par tomorrow and I'm right back in the ball game."

Crampton, an Aussie veteran of 15 years on the American tour, held a single-stroke lead over Tommy Aaron, who fired a respectable 67 in the gusty, tricky winds which swept over the 6,749-yard par 71 Olympia Fields Country Club course.

Lanky Dale Douglass was alone in third with a 68.

A group of five, headed by pug-nosed former Masters champ Gay Brewer were at 69, just three strokes off the pace going into the second round in the chase for the $30,000 first prize.

The others at that figure

Norfolk — One of the suggestions offered here Wednesday night at the annual meeting of the Nebraska State Ladies Golf Association was one to change at least the championship flight of the Nebraska State Ladies Golf Tournament from match to medal play.

Thursday, four-time champion Dorothy Schwartzkopf of Lincoln became a leading example for proponents of the change from match to stroke play.

Dorothy, making a bid to join Lucille Mann as the only five-time winners of the ladies title, was stymied in that bid Wednesday when she was eliminated by Betty Marchese of Omaha in a first round match.

This dropped Mrs. Schwartzkopf into the consolation bracket. She was the tourney medalist in Tuesday's qualifying round with a three over-par 77 and fired an 81 in losing to Mrs. Marchese.

Thursday, she came back with a one-over-par 75 in beating two-time champion Nancy Young Walker of Omaha, but that 75 will do nothing toward getting her the championship trophy again.

But under a stroke-play format, Dorothy, with her 77-81-75, would be leading the tourney.

With birdies at the 490-yard, par-5 first and the 431 yard, par-5 seventh, Dorothy played the front side of the Norfolk Country Club in one-under-par 36.

Meanwhile, back to those still in contention for that championship trophy, today's semifinals will pit two veterans against each other and two youngsters.

Crampton Fashions 66, Leads In Western Open Golf Meet

Chicago (AP) — Australian Bruce Crampton fashioned a five-under-par 66 Thursday and grabbed the first-round lead in the $150,000 Western Open Golf Tournament while Lee Trevino warned, "I'm not out of it yet."

Trevino, unprecedented winner of the U.S., Canadian and British Open championships in a four-week period, was seven strokes back at 74.

"Actually, 74 was about as bad as I could have scored," the 31-year-old Mexican-American said.

Second Place To Doane In Five-Year Grid Ratings

Star Selections

By Randy Eickhoff

New York — Senior classes have their superlatives. Yet how many can boast of not losing a single regular-season college football game in four years?

Only two college-division teams, North Dakota State and Doane (Neb.), can make that claim in the last quarter-century. North Dakota State has done it the last four years, while Doane's four-year streak ended with last season's 6-4 record.

North Dakota State is the winningest college football team in the nation — college-division or major — with an incredible five-year, regular-season win-loss percentage of .946 (43-2-1) to Doane's .895 (38-4-1).

Go back another two seasons, and North Dakota State sparkles with a 62-3-1 (.947 seven-year, regular-season record, a feat unmatched even by coach Bud Wilkinson's best seven years at Oklahoma, 64-4-2 (.929 in 1952-58).

Unlike Oklahoma, winning football had not been part of North Dakota State's history until coach Darrell Mudra and top assistant Ron Erhardt arrived in '63. North Dakota State had produced only three teams in 22 years with a win-loss percentage better than .500.

The frustration continued with the '63 team winning only three games.

But then the Bison charged on a 24-game winning streak, ending with consecutive losses to San Diego State and Northern Iowa in '66. That was the season Erhardt had replaced Mudra, and since then, the only non-victory on North Dakota State's regular-season record is a 14-14 tie with Eastern Michigan in '70.

The key to winning, Erhardt says, is motivation. "We sacrifice anything for morale, like unexpectedly cutting a two-hour practice to 45 minutes," he says.

Erhardt expects to continue winning, especially at home. Doane's 33 straight victories. "The most difficult thing about winning," he says, "is waiting to see when it will end. When we lose I hope it's 7-6, and not a flaccid, In a close game, you've always got hope."

By seasons, the South led with 10 teams in the top-25, followed by the East and Missouri Valley, five each, the Midwest four and the Southwest one.

Fishing Records Set For Salmon

Two new state fishing records for Kokanee and Coho Salmon have been set by anglers plying the waters of Lake McCaughey, the State Game Commission said Thursday.

The Kokanee Salmon record was set by Neal Dunbar of North Platte with a 4-pound, 2-ounce catch last Sunday that eclipsed the old mark of 3 pounds, 12 ounces held by George Coleman of Sidney since last December.

The new Coho Salmon mark was set by Lyle Fry of Gering with a 5-pound, 12 ounce. His Coho edged the old record, held by Mrs. George Coleman of Sidney, by one ounce.

Plummer Hits Down Royals

Omaha (AP) — Catcher Bill Plummer slammed five hits including two home runs and a triple to lead Indianapolis to an 8-1 victory over Omaha in the opener of a five-game American Association series Thursday night.

Plummer batted in five runs and Milt Wilcox and Danny Osborn combined to stymie the Royals on six hits after they collected 23 Wednesday night in beating Tulsa.

Rich Severson's RBI single coupled with John Matias' infield hit and a wild pitch deprived Wilcox of his shutout bid in the seventh.

Omaha Acquires Wright From KC

Kansas City (AP) — The Kansas City Royals Thursday activated right-hand pitcher Ken Wright from the disabled list and optioned him to Omaha.

Wright has been hobbled since June 24 with muscular tenderness in the right shoulder.

A starter, Wright last pitched June 15th.

Wright will pitch against Indianapolis tonight in Omaha.

Mustang Boss Calls Stadium 'Great Asset'

Omaha (AP)—The new president and chairman of the board of directors of the Education Athletic Association said Wednesday a domed stadium in Omaha, with a seating capacity of 60,000 to 70,000 would be a great asset to downtown Omaha.

David N. Osborne, 42, said "such a structure would be a tremendous generator for the downtown area."

The association operates the Omaha Mustangs professional football team.

A domed stadium of that size had earlier been mentioned with the Missouri riverfront development plan.

"It could be a focal point for redevelopment of the downtown area," Osborne said, "bringing 60,000 or so people into the downtown area for six to eight hours couldn't help but be a boon to downtown merchants."

He said his present concern is obtaining in Omaha for various athletic events such as the Houston Astro dome.

He cited cities such as Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, and St. Louis which have built riverfront stadiums as a focal point of redevelopment of the downtown area.

Deer Permits Still Remain

The State Game Commission reported Thursday firearm-deer permits are still available in all but the Blue, Wahoo, Nemaha and Elkhorn Game Management Units.

The commission said the permits would be available to hunters on a first-come, first-served basis.

A drawing was held July 9 for four oversubscribed management areas, the commission said and applications and checks from those persons not successful in the drawing are being returned.

As far as the unfilled units are concerned, the commission said, there appears to be no immediate danger of running out of permits.

The commission also reported that all firearm-antelope permits have been allocated.

No terms were disclosed immediately in the announcement at the team's training camp at the University of Massachusetts.

Plunkett is currently working out with the College All-Star team getting ready for their game with the NFL champion Baltimore Colts.

Richey Selection Paces American Davis Cup Squad

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., star of the 1970 Challenge Round, heads the six-man U.S. Davis Cup squad named Thursday to defend the international tennis trophy here Oct. 8-10.

Other members of the squad, chosen by Captain Edward A. Turville, are Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif.; Clark Graebner of New York, Tom Gorman of Seattle, Eric Van Dillen of San Mateo, Calif., and Frank Froehling III of Miami.

The best-of-five match series will be staged on the clay courts of Julian J. Clark Stadium here—marking the first time the Davis Cup Challenge Round has ever been played in the South.

Turville said the squad was selected on the basis of past performances but could be revised before the event.

"I am keeping close tabs on youngsters such as Jeff Borowiak, Jimmy Connors and Harold Solomon," the non-playing captain said. Absent from the team will be the familiar face of Arthur Ashe, Jr., a stalwart on the squad for the past five years. Ashe is now a contract pro working for Lamar Hunt's World Championship troupe and is ineligible.

Richey, ranked No. 1 nationally, won both his singles matches over Wilhelm Bungert and Christian Kuhnke last year in Cleveland in leading a 5-0 American sweep over West Germany. Ashe won two singles and Smith teamed with Bobby Lutz of Los Angeles in doubles. Lutz also is now a pro.

Smith was runnerup to John Newcombe earlier this month in the men's singles final at Wimbledon. Gorman, 25, has been one of the season's most sensational newcomers, scoring two victories over Rod Laver, one of them at Wimbledon.

Froehling is a towering veteran who played on the Davis Cup teams in 1963 and 1965 and gained the U.S. National singles final in 1963 before retiring to enter business. He recently returned to full-time tennis play, gaining the semifinals in the French Open.

Van Dillen is a 20-year-old new addition to the squad. He won the national junior title in 1969.

With Ashe and Lutz no longer available, Turville must experiment with both a new singles and doubles lineup. Richey and Smith now loom as the likely singles players, with Gorman and Froehling both posing threats. Smith won both singles matches against Romania two years ago.

The United States' opponent in the Challenge Round will be determined in elimination tournaments now in progress. This marks the last year the winning nation will be exempt from the eliminations. Next year—by vote of Davis Cup nations—the champion and challengers all will be tossed into the tournament bag.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Economic, Political Cliches Won't Boost Living Standard

Economic and political sweet talk fools suckers but adds nothing to the improvement of standards of living.

In a free society, there is opportunity for debate, but this is too frequently frittered away in expressions which merely repeat old misconceptions. Investment success lies in knowing whom to believe. Few get rich by following the cliches of stock peddlers.

In the battle for better living, the successful strategy is to encourage the creative to find better methods for making and exchanging things. Such technology makes the workers more productive through aiding him with mechanically driven tools.

With the enormous relative growth of the "public sector" (government) in contrast with the private sector (business), there has been a double standard. While industry was expected to offset higher labor rates with increased efficiency, public employment was regarded as resistant to change.

Growing Crisis

Inflation of costs has aggravated the adverse consequences and sharpened the growing "crisis" in the cities.

New York City as the leader has been inflating its budget by 15% a year while its offsetting revenues were going up only 5%. Mario Merola, Democratic chairman of the finance committee of the New York City Council, to his credit advocates offsetting reduction of members on city payrolls through better technological innovations.

Already IBM and the computer industry have facilitated more efficient use of service employees in private industry as well as in such gigantic federal schemes as the Social Security Administration.

Fortunes are available to innovators who can break through the traditional civil service inertia and make each person on government payrolls more productive. For example, schools are experimenting with talking typewriters and teaching machines. In American Samoa the scarcity of excellent teachers is offset through spreading their influence through closed circuit TV.

Time is wasted in repeating old fallacies instead of creative problem solving. The deadlock is compounded by overemphasis on poses that will win re-election. It would be a step forward to promote rotation in office and limit incumbents to one successive term.

Those who would scrap the system which they don't understand rely on the out-moded mid-19th Century Marxian fallacies. There is little grasp of the need for consolidated thinking. Many widely publicized personalities err in blind praise of the system, on the one hand, or in undeviating opposition to it, on the other. The creative approach is to recognize the perpetuity of change and to resolve to do better tomorrow those things which we are doing well today.

Thus bleeding hearts complain about the insufficient supply, the high cost and poor quality of housing without relating it to such uneconomic practices as limiting the number of bricks a worker may lay in a single day. This not only deteriorates the "public sector" but also weakens our global competitive status in the "private sector". Thus our favorable balance of trade — our excess of visible exports on goods over imports — has been disappearing. The emulation of our technology in lower wages countries reduces our ability to offset high money wage rates through efficiency into low unit costs.

George Meany, president, AFL-CIO, who thinks of himself as an advocate of the competitive system, de-emphasizes the foreign threat and indulges in propagandistic excursions to the effect that large U.S. corporate profits are the source of our economic maladjustments.

Much could be done to reduce poverty if we would apply the economic principles which have proven themselves. But nothing will be achieved by wishful thinking or berating the Lord for creating biological differences in men.

Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with stamped, self-addressed envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column. Others, to the extent time permits, will be handled by mail.

Direct Cattle Sales

Omaha (AP) (USDA) — Sales were confirmed on 4,000 head of slaughter steers and heifers sold direct from feedlots in the eastern two-thirds of Nebraska as compared to 5,500 head sold during the same period a week earlier, about 70% of the confirmed volume sold delivered alive, the balance sold on a dressed basis. Slaughter steers and heifers sold delivered alive to packing plants with weighing conditions equivalent to 3 or 4% shrink at the feedlots were scarce, not enough to establish trends.

Inflation of costs has aggravated the adverse consequences and sharpened the growing "crisis" in the cities.

New York City as the leader has been inflating its budget by 15% a year while its offsetting revenues were going up only 5%. Mario Merola, Democratic chairman of the finance committee of the New York City Council, to his credit advocates offsetting reduction of members on city payrolls through better technological innovations.

Already IBM and the computer industry have facilitated more efficient use of service employees in private industry as well as in such gigantic federal schemes as the Social Security Administration.

Fortunes are available to innovators who can break through the traditional civil service inertia and make each person on government payroll more productive. For example, schools are experimenting with talking typewriters and teaching machines. In American Samoa the scarcity of excellent teachers is offset through spreading their influence through closed circuit TV.

Time is wasted in repeating old fallacies instead of creative problem solving. The deadlock is compounded by overemphasis on poses that will win re-election. It would be a step forward to promote rotation in office and limit incumbents to one successive term.

Those who would scrap the system which they don't

MERRYLYE RUCKEYER
Successful
Strategy

understand rely on the outmoded mid-19th Century Marxian fallacies. There is little grasp of the need for consolidated thinking. Many widely publicized personalities err in blind praise of the system, on the one hand, or in undeviating opposition to it, on the other. The creative approach is to recognize the perpetuity of change and to resolve to do better tomorrow those things which we are doing well today.

Thus bleeding hearts complain about the insufficient supply, the high cost and poor quality of housing without relating it to such uneconomic practices as limiting the number of bricks a worker may lay in a single day. This not only deteriorates the "public sector" but also weakens our global competitive status in the "private sector". Thus our favorable balance of trade — our excess of visible exports on goods over imports — has been disappearing. The emulation of our technology in lower wages countries reduces our ability to offset high money wage rates through efficiency into low unit costs.

George Meany, president, AFL-CIO, who thinks of himself as an advocate of the competitive system, de-emphasizes the foreign threat and indulges in propagandistic excursions to the effect that large U.S. corporate profits are the source of our economic maladjustments.

Much could be done to reduce poverty if we would apply the economic principles which have proven themselves. But nothing will be achieved by wishful thinking or berating the Lord for creating biological differences in men.

(Mr. Ruckeyer will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with stamped, self addressed envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column. Others, to the extent time permits, will be handled by mail.)

Market Weekens After Early Gains

New York (AP) — After flirting with new gains Thursday, the stock market weakened and finished the day little changed for the session. Trading was moderate.

Most key market indices were slightly higher, however.

Investor uncertainty about the economy was cited by analysts as a reason for the market's lackluster session.

"Most investors are a little bit 'up to here' with pronouncements from Washington about what's going to happen with the economy," commented Robert Johnson, analyst for Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis.

"They're waiting to see just what does happen," he said. "More and more people are taking the 'I'm from Missouri and will have to be shown approach."

Other analysts said that the technical rally attempt, buying was limited mostly to a handful of professional traders and institutions. They added that many investors remained unconvinced the market was prepared for a meaningful gain.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial issues, which had been up nearly 5 points early in the session, closed down 2.34 at 888.87.

Hog Heart Is Lower In Omaha

Omaha (AP) — The uncertainty of rail transportation was cited as the prime factor in a lower hog market in Omaha Thursday. A generally 25 to as much as 50 lower trade developed on butcher hogs despite continued moderate to light marketing volume and an apparent firming in the wholesale segment of the industry.

Bulk 190-240 lbs. were at 19.75-20.50, with a short load 205-220 lbs. at 20.75 for the outside top.

Sows were steady to instances 25 lower ranging 15.25-17.00 for weights 300-600 lbs.

Slaughter steers were steady although most observers felt the volume on offer was insufficient to furnish a full test of the market.

Top on choice steers was 32.50. High choice heifers reached 32.00.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

Here's how to work it: One letter stands for another in this example. A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

There is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract it from the number of letters in your last name. If the result is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
